GERMANY COLLAPSING; REVOLT IN KAISER'S NAVY.

French Join British in New Attacks and Force Back the Invader.

The Great War.

ADVANCE OF TWO MILES MADE BY HAIG'S MEN.

French Cross Flooded Area with Ease and Surprise the Germans—Two Villages are Captured.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

A big fight is on again in Flanders and the Germans are being hammered hard, the British Press says in its review of the dispatches for the past few hours. Field Marshal Haig is battering away on the second and northeast of Ypres, and French troops have joined the British left wing south of the Lys in an effort to bring that part of the line even with the salient that has been driven in the German front by Haig east of Ypres.

Following their attacks simultaneously Tuesday morning, both British and French made considerable gains in the mud and in addition to taking heavy casualties on the enemy, are taking many prisoners.

Prior to the announcement of the commencement of the attack there was no intimation that the British were ready for an advance, as it had been rather expected that the British commander-in-chief would delay taking the offensive again for several days, owing to the terrible condition of the ground. In quest of—a veritable sea of mud to the heavy rains of the week-end Monday.

FRENCH TRIUMPH.

In the apparent ease the French have invaded Broembeek and the outskirts of Langemarck and captured the village of St. Jean de Mangelaere and Pilckem, together with numerous prisoners, and took prisoners hundred Germans. The advance of the French was over a front of more than a mile and a half and they penetrated the German line to a depth of one and a quarter miles.

Haig's principal offensive centered on the portions of the Passchendaele-Gheluvelt ridge still held by the Germans, being directed eastward from Poelcapelle, which was captured, and northeastward from Broodseinde toward Passchendaele, the ultimate objective still being the Ostend-Lille road. Taken as a whole, the joint operation makes more apparent the crowning desire of the Allies in this region—the forcing back of the Germans to points where their evacuation of Ostend and Zeebrugge, naval and submarine bases on the North Sea, will become necessary.

At several points Haig's advance was sharply contested by the Germans—particularly north of Broodseinde, the nearest approach to the railroad line, and near the Polderhoek chateau. Nowhere were the Germans able to stop the advance, except near Polderhoek chateau, where the terrific fire of their machine guns momentarily forced the British to give ground. Later the attacking troops realized themselves and the successful push went on again.

OTHER FRONTS.

Aside from Flanders the operations in various theaters of war are of a minor character. Along the Aisne and Champagne road and on the left bank of the Meuse in the Verdun sector intensive artillery duels are still in progress between the French and the Germans. In Champagne the French have carried out a successful raid near the Butte of Tahure and taken prisoners.

There is still considerable infantry and artillery activity between the Russians and Germans in the

NEW CAMPS FOR WEST.

Sites Indicated in Five States.

Many Regiments may Come to Pacific Coast to Train for the War.

Shortage in National Guard Compels a Readjustment of Army Plans.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Additional army training camps will probably be located in the West. It became known here today with the issuance of an order from the Western Department of the army to Maj. Richard Park, Corps of Engineers, to immediately investigate sites at Hackstaff, Cal., Reno and Tebar, Nev.; Boise, Idaho; Umatilla and Warm Springs, Or., and at Tenino, Wash.

AT CAMP FREMONT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Construction work at Camp Fremont, Palo Alto, Cal., is being pushed rapidly and troops will be sent there for training as soon as quarters are ready.

The camp was originally designated as a National Guard training posts, but when State health authorities objected to the sewerage system that was being installed the guardsmen were ordered to the camp at Charlotte, N. C.

Representative Kahn of California was informed today at the War Department that the Palo Alto encampment would be designated as a training post in the near future, but the troops to be sent there had not been assigned as yet.

CAMP'S HIGH STANDING.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PALO ALTO, Oct. 9.—Camp Fremont stands first among all cantonments for expedition and economy in its construction, according to official advices recently received here. Quarters for troops are virtually completed and work is being pushed on a base hospital and remount station.

THE COMPLETE PLAN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. — Orders issued today to commanders of National Army cantonments disclose the War Department's complete plans for the training and organization of the first 500,000 of the National Army.

Shortage of men in the three National Guard divisions in the South, the Thirtieth, Thirty-first and Thirty-ninth, coupled with a decision to form a new National Army division of negro troops, has made necessary a readjustment of the forces at fifteen of the sixteen cantonments. The geographical phase of three National Army divisions will be changed entirely as a result.

BLISS'S STATEMENT.

Gen. Bliss, Chief of Staff, issued this explanation:

"The selected men being gathered into the sixteen National Army cantonments will be used to form the first force of 500,000 men authorized in the act of Congress approved May 18, 1917, and to fill up the National Guard divisions to practically the maximum strength of the new organization. The balance of the 687,000 selected men will supplement the voluntary enlistments for special and technical troops that are such an important part of the organization of a modern army. It is expected that voluntary enlistments for the regular army will be enough to keep that branch filled up to strength without transferring men to it from this first selection for the National Army.

SIXTEEN DIVISIONS.

"The force of 500,000 men will be organized into sixteen white divisions and one colored division. One white division will be organized at each of the sixteen National Army cantonments and the units of the colored division will be organized at the various cantonments where the number is sufficient to organize a divisional unit.

"Instead of concentrating all of the colored men in the few cantonments of the Southern States the policy of the War Department will be to distribute them more or less evenly throughout all of the sixteen cantonments.

"In the Southern States, whose quotas go to the cantonments at Columbia, S. C.; Atlanta, Ga., and Little Rock, Ark. (Camps Jackson, Gordon and Pike,) the number of white men required to fill the National Guard divisions furnished by these same States is so great and the proportion of colored to white in the populations of those States is so great that it has been found to be physically impossible to organize three National Guard and three National Army divisions at full strength from the white quotas of those States, and, therefore, the War Department has decided to take all the white men from these States, both National Guard and National Army, and organize them into four full-strength divisions (three National Guard and one National Army.) PLOT OF THE GERMAN SEAMEN TO FORCE KAISER TO PEACE.

Official Announcement in the Reichstag that the Parties to the Conspiracy Have Been Arrested and Properly Punished.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 9.—Vice-Admiral von Capelle, German Minister of Marine, announced in the Reichstag today that a plot had been discovered in the navy to form a committee of delegates on the Russian model and to paralyze the fleet so as to force the government to make peace. The guilty parties have been arrested and have received their just deserts, he added.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 9.—The New York Herald tomorrow morning will print the following:

The United States government is momentarily expecting cable messages which will relate to a naval operation of transcendant magnitude in or near the North Sea, or of such importance that the whole aspect of the war may be changed. That is the information that has come to the Herald from a high and unquestionable authority.

"DESPERATION MOVE."

There is reason to believe that the long expected "desperation move" by Germany has been started and that it is being resisted with all the power the great fleets of the Allies can bring into play.

The American, British, French and Italian naval forces are fully alive to the world importance of the operation now in progress.

At this time, when official news has not been received, it is impossible for the Herald to state that the German grand fleet, which has been in course of preparation since the war began, for a final engagement with the Allies, has left its base to give battle to the Allies. Nor is it possible to state that the Allied fleet had driven "the rat from its hole."

But, it is possible to state, upon the information in hand, that a grave matter of the utmost importance, one that may change the aspect of the whole war, is occurring.

Several times in the last few months the German grand fleet has been at large, but each time it returned to its base without engaging the Allies.

EXPECTATIONS.

Naval strategists have expected one of two things. Realizing that her submarine campaign of frightfulness was failing, Germany has been expected to send out fast cruisers in the hope of getting some of them by the blockading fleets, and then attack all merchant shipping that can be found. The alternate move by Germany, as anticipated by the Allied strategists, would be to send out her grand fleet for a final battle with the Allies.

Advance information so far received, and of the most secret nature, does not state what the naval move is, but in either event, it would be considered of vast importance. With fast cruisers scouring the Atlantic for merchantmen and transports, Germany could do great damage before her cruisers were run down and sunk. Naval authorities have admitted that it would be possible for Germany to get some fast cruisers through the blockade, probably at the cost of sinking many others. In desperation, she may be expected to make tremendous sacrifices.

Either, Or.

SUBMISSION BY KAISER WOULD END THE WAR.

President Wilson in No Mood Now to Listen to Platitudes from Berlin. Teuton Outlook Gloomy.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 9.—Coincidentally with fresh revelations of the weakening of Germany in man power, munitions, morale and economic resources the cable report that Berlin is about to make a new bid for peace is regarded as significant by many administration officials.

If it be true that the Kaiser is about to offer to evacuate Belgium and Northern France unconditionally and renounce indemnity his move will be interpreted as an effort to tempt the United States and the Allies into a peace parley by reducing his price.

The administration is convinced that Germany, realizing there is no escape from eventual defeat, will devote the interruption of warfare the coming winter to peace maneuvers of which the pending move reported by cable may be the beginning. It is expected that the Kaiser, finding it impossible to purchase peace at one price, will offer another and that he may yet be willing to evacuate not only Belgium and Northern France, but Alsace-Lorraine.

It may be that the Kaiser, in proposing to give up Belgium and Northern France, is preparing to make a virtue of a necessity, for, weather permitting, if Field Marshal Haig continues his gigantic drive, the Germans will not be able to wait upon a peace parley to begin their evacuation. Every day brings fresh evidence of the waning power of Germany. No more impressive information on this head has been obtained than that set forth in an official statement issued by the French high commission today on the basis of reports from the French General Staff.

Germany, according to this report, has rushed her freshest troops to the western front only to have them annihilated and has been compelled to abandon the formation of ten new divisions because of the shortage of fighting man.

While the strength of Germany is declining, though still capable of great resistance, the Allies are just beginning to exert their full power. Before the power of the Allies, reinforced by the American army and resources, Germany will succumb in 1918, in the view of the French high commission.

NO HEED TO PROMISES.

No matter, therefore, how temptingly the Kaiser talks of peace this winter, President Wilson and the Allies, confident of victory, will turn deaf ears to words not backed up by appropriate action. A promise to evacuate Belgium and Northern France will not be heeded so much

NEW CENSORSHIP IN EFFECT; UNBRIDLED PRESS IN DANGER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 9. —The President and his Cabinet today devoted considerable time to a discussion of the creation of a government censorship board, provided under the trading-with-the-enemy act which will have immediate control and supervision over the mails, cables and telegraph lines. This board, which will shortly be announced by the President, will contain members from the War, Navy and Post-office departments and the exports administrative board. It is planned that this body shall take charge of whatever work is now being done by the War and Navy departments in the censorship of cables and messages now being sent to foreign countries, especially to those that may be acting in the interest of the German government.

Postmaster-General Burleson stated after the Cabinet meeting today that in carrying out the provisions of the trading-with-the-enemy act, the Postoffice Department is receiving daily applications from foreign-language newspapers and publications in this country for permits to continue printing in their native tongue. None of these has been acted upon, but permits will be granted within the next ten days. Foreign-language newspapers which do not receive such permits will be required to file English translations of articles on war questions and the government.

BURLESON'S VIEWS.

"This may work a slight hardship on such publications at first," said the Postmaster-General, "but in the end it will work out all right. Of course, we shall scan carefully all applications for permission to use the German language exclusively, but each publication will be given a fair deal."

When asked regarding the suppression of newspapers that have spread the doctrine of sedition and treason in this country Mr. Burleson replied that his department is not going after such publications.

"They are going after themselves," he explained.

The Postmaster-General is charged with the enforcement of the laws of Congress respecting such publications and he is carrying out such instructions. There is no newspaper, no matter whether it spreads the doctrine of Socialism or what-not, that will be barred from the mails if it complies with the laws of the United States. Fair and just criticism of the government or its officials will not be taken into consideration. But proof that any publication is advocating resistance to any war measure of the government or hampering those charged with the conduct of the war will result in the disbarment of such publication.

He stated that a number of such publications had been requested to show cause why they should not be barred from the mails.

"We are not giving out any names of such publications," he explained, "leaving it to the papers thus barred to do so if they choose."

EXPORTS CONTROL.

Control over imports and exports vested in the President by the trading-with-the-enemy act will be delegated to the exports administration, which will enlarge its work to include the many intricate problems presented. Instead of merely licensing exports, it would then have a more positive authority to forbid under heavy penalty expostations suspected of being destined to Germany or her allies.

The license control over enemy insurance companies, vested in the President, probably will be turned over to the war risk insurance bureau of the Treasury, although this point is understood to be still under debate, as Commerce Department officials are said to be anxious to administer the insurance company licenses. Regulation of foreign exchange and export of coin and bullion would be given to the Federal reserve board, which already licenses gold movements under the exports act.

It is understood the Commerce Department will be given custody of enemy property in the United States. The act provides that the President shall appoint an official for this work, but the President is represented as anxious not to create offices distinct from existing departments.

LEGITIMATE CRITICISM.

The Postmaster-General said today that publications need not fear suppression under the trading-with-the-enemy act's censorship provision, unless they transgress the bounds of legitimate criticism of the President, the administration, the army, the navy or conduct of the war.

Mr. Burleson explained that the policy of foreign-language newspapers would be judged by their past utterances and not by newly-announced intentions.

"We have files of these papers and whether we license them or not depends on our inspection of the files," he said. German newspapers not licensed will be required to publish English translations.

Mr. Burleson said no Socialist paper would be barred from the mails unless it contained treasonable or seditious matter.

"The trouble is," he added, "that most Socialist papers do contain this matter."

Extravagant.

SPY MONEY GAMBLED BY AGENT OF KAISER.

Millions Squandered in Stock Operation by Bernstorff's Employee.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 9.—Millions intrusted to Dr. Heinrich Albert, for the payment of German spies and other propagandists in this country, were gambled away by the imperial privy councilor in the speculative markets in New York and Chicago. Albert, who shared the unenviable distinction with Count von Bernstorff of directing Germany's spy work here had the handling of between $60,000,000 and $75,000,000. With this fund he was to pay his spies, buy newspapers, lecturers and other moulders of public opinion and prevent the shipment of munitions to the Allies. The records in the archives of the government at Washington show that wheat, lard and cotton were his pet ventures, and in wheat and cotton he lost heavily. It is estimated that he lost $8,000,000 at least, and of this sum he lost upwards of a million through a single cotton transaction.

All this was known to many of Germany's representatives here, and one of them, Dr. H. P. S. Falcke, the German Consul-General, sent a report of Geheimrath Albert's private speculations with Germany's gold to Germany. And Albert was not the only German who bilked his government. For Capt. Franz Rintelen, a reserve officer in the German navy and reputed relative of the Kaiser, now in this country serving a term of two years, did likewise. Proof of this was also furnished to the Wilhelmstrasse.

FALCKE'S REPORT.

The report of Consul-General Falcke was issued in the form of a pamphlet. And when Albert, along with his co-conspirator, Count von Bernstorff, reached Germany last March after the severance of diplomatic relations, the German diplomatic representatives returning from this country were handed copies of this pamphlet as their train pulled into the Friedrichstrasse depot. This pamphlet, a fifty-page affair, in the periphrastic phrases occasioned by the high position of the Geheimrath, accused him of stealing the money he used in his speculations from funds intrusted him by the Foreign Office for furthering the cause of the

"GERMAN PEACE" ISSUE BEFORE THE REICHSTAG.

Michaelis Denies Kaiser is Pushing New Party in the Country.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 9.—Chancellor Michaelis, in an address to the Reichstag Main Committee yesterday, as reported in Berlin dispatches, replied to the charge that officials had undertaken propaganda for the new Fatherland party which is carrying on a movement in favor of a "German peace." The Chancellor laid down the principle, which applies to Prussian officials as well as those connected with the imperial government, that all are free in their political opinion and are permitted to belong to any party so long as the empire is not endangered thereby.

In their political activities officials should observe reticence, so that the public may not lose faith in their impartiality. To force or induce subordinates to adopt an attitude in favor of any party, the Chancellor continued, would be to abuse official positions. This will not be permitted, the Chancellor said, and obedience to this principle will be enforced in cases brought to his attention.

AS TO THE ARMY.

As regards the army, the Chancellor said, all political propaganda will be excluded.

After the Chancellor's speech the committee adopted a supplementary budget for the office of Vice-Chancellor, only the Social Democrats voting against it.

"The governments of the federal states are endeavoring to regard all political leanings with complete objectiveness and to do full justice to every political opinion," said the Chancellor. "I adopt this attitude because I am convinced that every political party honestly desires to do its best for the common weal. It is to be greatly regretted that this mutual faith should have been pushed into the background in the course of the controversy in the last few weeks, and that mutually antagonistic forms of propaganda should have been the result.

GRIEF OF GERMANS.

"Every German readily and gladly makes the sacrifice of blood or treasure demanded from him. I believe that among us there is hardly anyone who, remembering what he has had to give up, does not gulp down his upsurging grief with the reflection that it had to be."

The Chancellor pointed out that Germany's opponents also are compelled to make sacrifices, and said that if this were kept in mind the agitation which had made its appearance should become impossible.

Lieut.-Gen. Von Stein, Prussian War Minister, said there was no intention of putting politics into the army, but that, on the contrary, it was intended to prevent this, and that any attempt of propaganda in behalf of any party had been prohibited.

TURKS ARE FOR PEACE WITH UNITED STATES.

Elkus Says Americans are Well Treated in Land of the Sultan.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 9.—The people of Germany may be slowly starving, but the German army is well fed, in the opinion of Abraham I. Elkus, American Minister to Turkey, who is in Chicago today in the interests of the Armenian and Syrian relief fund. Mr. Elkus is the guest of Rufus C. Dawes, chairman of the Chicago Committee for Armenian Relief.

"While I was asked to return to my country by the Turkish authorities," said Ambassador Elkus, "yet Turkey is treating the Americans very well. Turkey would like to continue at peace with the United States.

"The American colleges at Constantinople are doing a great work, particularly the College for Women, where the Moslem women are taught American ideals, which they take back home with them."

Mr. Elkus returned in June to America from Turkey by way of France and visited the French battle front.

"If the American soldiers are treated as well as the French treat their soldiers, and I have no reason to believe they will not," said Mr. Elkus, "this nation will give a good account of itself on the French front.

"The Germans in their destructive work in France have been most thorough. I recall one town of 10,000 population which two weeks before my visit was a beautiful, well-organized little city. When I was there, two weeks after the Germans were there, not a soul was to be seen and not a building had as many as four walls. One church in the town had been literally blown to pieces with dynamite."

Ambassador Elkus spoke at noon at the Illinois Theater on behalf of the Armenian fund. He visited the University of Chicago during the afternoon, where he addressed the faculty and students.

Holland's Defiance to the Embargo; Will Kill off Surplus Livestock to Feed Germany

Exportation.

DUTCH ARE IN STRAITS; CAN'T FEED LIVE STOCK.

Unless Help Comes from United States Soon, Cheap Meat for Germany will be the Result.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 9.—Holland will kill a large percentage of her live stock and export large quantities of the meat to Germany unless the United States lifts the embargo on the exportation to Holland of live stock feeds.

Julius E. Vanderwielen, head of the Dutch mission to the United States, said today that the order to sacrifice live stock already has gone into effect.

"We will be obliged to continue the killing which was begun before the commission left Holland, unless the United States sells us feeding stuffs," he said. "Without these importations from the United States, Holland will have to kill at least 50 per cent. of all her live stock.

"We do not possess sufficient cold storage facilities to permit us to keep the meat fresh and we have not the materials to build cold-storage plants, and even if we had the materials we haven't the coal to run them. A part of the fresh meat will be distributed to the people at low prices, and some will be preserved, but that will be only a drop in the bucket because we have no salt. So we will have to sell the meat.

"When we left Holland there was a rumor that the United Kingdom would not buy our beef. Generally speaking, the English people do not like Dutch beef, and, as England is not hungry, she will continue to buy only the best beef. Perhaps the British will buy some of the mutton and bacon, but the greater part of the meat will go to Germany.

"Public opinion in the United States believes Holland is obliged to send foodstuffs to Germany. There is no such obligation, only an agreement as with the Allies, that if there is a surplus it ought to be divided according to the percentages agreed upon in case of exports, but there is no obligation to export. At this very moment we have not any surplus. Neither the Allies nor Germany will be able to get any from Holland."

War Measure.

ROTTERDAM BLOCKADED BY GERMAN SUBMARINES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 9.—Rotterdam is virtually blockaded by German submarines and airplanes, and even Dutch vessels are held in that port, according to word brought here today by J. J. Sullivan of Boston, an American member of the crew of the Belgian relief steamship Thomas Krag.

The Germans, he said, permit vessels to enter the port, as Holland is supplying certain articles to Germany, but not even a fishing vessel is permitted to leave. The Krag, a Norwegian vessel, went to Rotterdam from Port Arthur, Tex. After unloading her war relief cargo she entered the North Sea to return to this country. A German submarine confronted her and disabled her steering gear with a shell, and forced her to make her way back into port.

After repairing, she started out again, but German airplanes with bombs drove her back a second time. The next time she started out a torpedo hit her amidships. Twenty-six of the crew managed to get into the boats and were rescued by an armed British trawler.

BRITISH DRIVE WINS DESPITE FIERCE STORM.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN FLANDERS, Oct. 9. — Amid one of the most terrific hurricanes of artillery fire the French army, co-operating in conjunction with the British, early this morning won a brilliant victory, which carried the troops forward to a depth of half a mile along a front of about a mile, stretching from Draadbank to Wydendreeft. More than 200 prisoners and a number of cannon and machine guns fell into the hands of the French and their advance took them to a position where they command the western border of the forest of Houthoist.

The movement was a pivoting one and, as a result, virtually all the observatories dominating the vast Flanders plain now are in the hands of the Allies.

The attack was preceded by a howling windstorm accompanied by a drenching rain which made the ground a quagmire. The correspondent passed over the French side of the battlefield on the evening pending the attack and found everything and everybody ready. But underneath their feet the ground gave way while the atmosphere resembled a shower bath. No garments could withstand the penetrating qualities of the elements. All around shell holes were filled to their brims with water.

ORDERS TO MOVE COME.

At length, soon after 5 o'clock in the morning, definite orders arrived and the troops were glad. They went forward with great rapidity notwithstanding the conditions, circling the shell holes and slipping through the deepest mud. They knew, however, that the success of future operations depended on their efforts today.

When they reached their first objective points they found the Germans crowded in nests of craters, which hereabouts form the first lines, the building of trenches in this section of Flanders being impossible owing to the porous soil.

Good luck had made the advance coincide with the period when the Germans were changing the troops occupying their front lines. A German division was just handing over the lines to a fresh division recently arrived from the Russian front. The French with wonderful dash were upon them before they realized the situation and killed many of them.

SHORT RESPITE.

There was a short respite before the next forward movement was undertaken in co-operation with the British, who were advancing simultaneously on the French right. Slithering along over the broken and muddy ground the French troopers made their way quickly toward Mangelaare, which soon fell into their possession.

The whole scheme of operations for the day had been carried out long before noon. The infantry's advance was greatly assisted by the daring of the aviators who would not permit the weather conditions to interfere with their work. They flew low over the German lines, taking capital photographs and then returned in the fearful gale to their bases to turn in their reports. Meanwhile not a single German airplane was seen in the air.

FOREST IS FLANKED.

The result of the day's fighting in addition to the men and material captured is that the forest of Houthoist, which comprises five or six miles of thickly wooded ground, now is virtually flanked on both sides. As far as can be learned, the wood contains considerable artillery and large numbers of machine guns, but the Germans must find extraordinary difficulty in keeping them supplied.

For the moment the French troops are occupied in consolidating the ground won, which, although small in extent, represents an invaluable gain as it deprives the Germans of their points of observation.

fatherland. Such lines as "Albert feathered his own nest, with the millions intrusted to him" were scattered throughout the pamphlet.

The booklet had for its sole object the driving out of public life Geheimrath Albert, but the Wilhelmstrasse does not take kindly to attacks on its chosen few. The "Hohe Kreise" resented this attack on one of their number. In answer to the charge that Dr. Albert "satisfied his mean passions with public money," the German text was "Albert frohnte seiner leidenschaft auf staatskosten" the "Hohe Kreise," declared it a malicious libel. And the Hohe Kreise saw to it that Albert was not injured by the publication of this document and urged the Kaiser to reward him for him spy and general propaganda work in the United States. And the Kaiser rewarded the Geheimrath and made him his fiscal agent in Belgium. The proof of some of the charges against Albert, the American government has in its possession. It has proof showing his speculative accounts in Chicago's wheat pit and through a broker dealing in pork who has close affiliations with the Armour packing industry. He had dealings with several Chicago houses. Here in New York he carried but one account that is known.

In this New York account he lost between $650,000 and $1,000,000. Only a thorough investigation of this account, which was carried by A. G. Hagedorn, of suite 89, the Cotton Exchange Building, could establish the exact figures. And in this the government officials are not particularly interested.

The millions Albert lost in speculation—he seems to have been always a loser—can be imagined from this one loss alone, which covered a single transaction. The facts in this particular transaction are: Albert bought in the cotton market in Savannah 30,000 bales toward the end of January, 1916. At that time cotton was selling at 13 cents a pound. Each bale averaged 500 pounds. This purchase, an approximate total of 15,000,000 pounds, stood Albert in average of $65 a bale, or $1,950,000.

The Mexicans were imported owing to the impossibility of obtaining other labor, Mr. Bentley said.

BATTLE DETAILS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 9.—Another big attack was begun at dawn today against the German positions to the east and north of Ypres by both the British and French armies, and had met with great success in the first few hours of the fighting. At many places the Allied forces had battled their way forward to a depth of 1200 yards or more within the enemy territory, and reports from all along a wide front indicated that everything was going in favor of the assaulting troops, notwithstanding the exceedingly bad condition of the ground due to the last few days' rain.

On the north the French had surged across at the Posbeek and Broenbeek rivers in the direction of Houthoist forest, and at an early hour were reported to be fighting around Mangelaere, about 1500 yards beyond their original front lines. By 8:30 o'clock they had obtained several hundred prisoners.

Further to the south the British had pushed the Germans back to Poelcapelle and were fighting well in the eastern outskirts of the city ground a big brewery. British troops on the Gravenstafel ridge had carried their drive forward to the Paschendaele ridge and were resting about a thousand yards southwest of the town of Passchendaele.

Between the Ypres-Roulers railway and the village of Broodseinde the assaulting forces had pushed forward for a considerable distance down the eastern slopes of Broodseinde ridge and to the lower ground. East of Ypres, in the zone embracing Reutel and Polderhoek, where there has been much bitter fighting recently, the British were carrying out strong operations, and it was reported that success also had been achieved there.

Just north of Broodseinde, at Daisy Wood, the Germans were holding out strongly. The British had pushed forward and surrounded the wood, and hot fighting was proceeding. The British also met with strong resistance at Polderhoek Chateau. They reached this position early in the attack, but were forced by heavy machine-gun fire to withdraw a little for the moment.

At the latest report they had made an advance.

The meager report received just as this dispatch was filed says the Germans were counter-attacking heavily astride the Ypres-Roulers railway.

The air service is doing fine work, notwithstanding a gale of wind. Six German airplanes that ventured over the British lines at a height of 5400 feet were engaged in battle by British airmen, and a spectacular fight is proceeding.

Prisoners have been brought back in large numbers. The battle opened at 5:20 o'clock under a clear sky, but the ground had been turned into a morass in many places by the recent heavy rains. It was especially difficult for operations along the northern section of the attack, where they are many little rivers bordered with marshy ground.

The gunfire from both the British and French artillery was terrific at the hour of the attack, and the preliminary bombardment had been intense for days. The German artillery was replying weakly this morning at most places.

OFFICIAL REPORTS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—British troops effected the complete capture of Poelcapelle and advanced nearly two miles northwest of that village in their drive in Flanders today. According to the report from Field Marshal Haig tonight, the British operations were very successful. All objectives have been gained and the number of prisoners already exceeds 1000.

ARGENTINE CAUTIOUS.

No Break with Germany Unless More Cause is Given—Uruguay is Glad to Join Allies.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 9.—The Argentine government is not prepared to follow the action of Uruguay in severing diplomatic relations with Germany, according to Foreign Minister Pueyrredon. Argentina has not pledged her neutrality, the Foreign Minister added, but is attempting to safeguard her own interests. Relations with Germany will be broken if sufficient cause arises, but as long as Germany recognizes the Argentine flag and respects the nation and the people there probably will be no break.

Much surprise has been occasioned in political circles here by the following statement, said to have been made by the Foreign Minister of Uruguay in urging the Uruguayan Congress to break off relations with Germany:

"Uruguay, as a small nation between two great ones, must seek a balance of force to resist the possible hegemony of Argentina, with which nation we still have questions which are not settled definitely. This balance consists in bringing closer together Brazil and the states of our connection with the great states of the present conflict, so that it will make impossible an attack upon Uruguayan sovereignty without an immediate reverberation throughout the American continent."

The unsettled questions between Uruguay and Argentine concern the River Plate. Argentina claims that the river belongs to her, while Uruguay insists that she owns one-half. The dispute involves the ownership of the complete island of Martin-garcia, now held by Argentina.

Escape of German Submarine Puts Dons in Bad Way.

Latest Trick of Kaiser Blow to Pride of Neutral.

Must Satisfy the Allies or Trouble will Follow.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 9.—The State Department is vastly more interested in what Spain is going to do about the German submarine that broke internment than in the "peace balloon." Just now this is Spain's affair, her sovereignty is flouted; her officials are insulted; her laws are defied and her neutrality is violated. It must be assumed that she will call the Kaiser to account for his violent infraction of one more international law. If she does not do this the Allies will be likely to call Spain to account instead. If Spain indicates that she is powerless to prevent the use of her harbors as refuges for German submarines, the Allies may say to her: "If you cannot police your own harbors and roadsteads he will police them for you."

If German submarines are to run to cover in Spanish ports and leave again at their convenience, Allied submarine chasers and destroyers will take the same privilege. The practice of belligerents in permitting the internment of enemy ships in neutral harbors carries with it the understanding that the neutral shall guard the vessel so that it shall not be a menace to the other fellows. Otherwise there would be naval battles in neutral harbors, and all manner of damage would be done the innocent bystander.

The escape of the German vessel makes Spain responsible for whatever damage she does to the Allied cause. The logical consequence of the flight of the submarine would be the arrest of the commander by his own government and his return and that of the vessel to Spanish custody.

Nobody in Washington is staying awake tonight to get the news that Germany has done any such thing. But Spain must make the effort, and by the earnestness with which she attempts to secure satisfaction for the affront she will be judged by England, France, America & Co.

It is the most serious situation in which Spain has found herself since the war began.

Noted Author Declares Safety of Country Thirty Years Hence Depends on Action Now and Advises Government to Consider the Situation Seriously.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—A remarkable statement was made last night by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle on the policy adopted by Germany to insure her future man power. He was speaking in Free Trade Hall, Manchester, under the auspices of the Law Reform Union, and he demanded immediate legislation to convert conjugal separations of three years and upwards into divorces.

"The question of future population," he said, "is one on which the balance of power thirty years hence and the safety of the country will depend. There is good evidence that Germany is going to the most monstrous lengths to strengthen her future position, and that a child born to the order of the state, where the parents are little more than strangers to each other, will be an element in this development.

"God forbid that we should follow Germany in such devices, but is this the time to allow a considerable section of our population to be sterilized?"

HENDERSON URGES VICTORIOUS PEACE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BORDEAUX (France) Sunday, Oct. 7.—Addresses from American, Italian and Russian Socialists were read at today's session of the national convention of the Socialist party.

A long telegram was received from Arthur Henderson, the British labor leader and former member of the war council, who expressed the hope that an inter-allied Socialist conference would be held soon. The Internationale, he declared, could not meet during the war. Mr. Henderson affirmed the resolution of the British workers to continue the struggle until a victorious peace was achieved.

About Constipation.

Certain articles of diet tend to check movements of the bowels. The most common of these are cheese, tea and boiled milk. On the other hand, raw fruits, especially apples and bananas, also graham bread and whole wheat bread, promote a movement of the bowels. VILLA'S MEN DESTROY CARRANZA COMMAND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Oct. 9.—Following a fight between Villa followers and a Federal force at San Antonio Pass, opposite Candelaria, Tex., yesterday, Lieut.-Col. Miranda and four survivors of his Mexican Federal command of 100 crossed the border to Candelaria last night, according to information received here today by Consul-General Seguin. Miranda's command left Juarez last week to reinforce the Ojinaga garrison. While passing through San Antonio Pass 200 Villa followers under Ildefonso Sanchez and Placido Villanueva attacked it.

Thirty Federal soldiers were killed, forty-five taken prisoner and five escaped, two of them wounded. The remainder are reported missing.

Six Villa followers were reported killed and five wounded.

SOLDIERS SUBSCRIBE FOR LIBERTY BONDS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Army subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan are being received in large numbers, said an announcement today by Lieut.-Col. H. M. Lord, in charge of the loan campaign among soldiers. Totals reported, including Saturday, showed $626,000, with many camps to report.

The National Guard camp at Hattiesburg, Miss., leads with $116,400, and Camp Funston, National Army cantonment at Fort Riley, Kan., is second with $58,600.

The largest subscription from any one organization is that of the Eighth Illinois Infantry at Chicago, which reports $54,100. Amounts aggregating $183,000 have been subscribed at various forts in the country, with the majority yet unreported.

Sales Below Needed Average in the Chief Centers.

New York is Only Place Anywhere Near Minimum.

Banks Bending All Efforts to Speed the Drive.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Liberty Bond sales in the chief financial sections of the country have fallen below the daily average which should be maintained to reach the $2,000,000,000 minimum set by Secretary McAdoo.

New England has been called upon to raise a minimum of $300,000,000. Thus far she has raised $25,546,000. Unreported subscriptions, it is estimated, will swell the total to $40,000,000.

New York, including the New York Federal Reserve District, has been set down for a minimum of $900,000,000. Tonight's total of actual subscriptions was $250,874,600. Her showing thus far is the best of any district of the twelve.

The Philadelphia reserve district is down in the official Treasury apportionment for a minimum of $250,000,000 and "expected" amount of $415,000,000. Her actual subscriptions to date are estimated at $50,000,000.

The Chicago district has a minimum apportionment of $420,000,000 and an expected amount of $700,000,000. Up to last Saturday $25,000,000 had been subscribed and $25,000,000 more pledged.

These four districts are expected by the Treasury to take a minimum of $1,870,000,000 in bonds. They have taken thus far an estimated total of $290,000,000. This is $1,480,000,000 less than the lowest sum expected of them for the entire campaign. It is $220,000,000 less than one-third of the minimum (one-third of the campaign having passed) and to make up their minimum it will be necessary for them to subscribe at the rate of $92,000,000 a day or nearly twice as much as they have been subscribing for daily to date.

Officials of the Treasury Department are pressing virtually every reserve bank to speed up the campaign and get subscriptions early. New York is virtually the only reserve district within hailing distance of the daily average which should have been maintained. Approximately five-sixths of its minimum has been taken.

The city government bought $700,000 worth of the bonds and the Pacific Hardware and Steel Company took $160,000 worth.

RULES FOR RED CROSS.

Government Forbids Society to Give Out Information as to Whereabout of Soldiers.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The government, for military reasons, has requested the American Red Cross to abandon the plan undertaken some time ago to transmit inquiries as to "welfare and whereabouts" emanating from residents of the United States to persons in the territories of the Central Powers or areas occupied by them. Therefore no further letters of that character will be transmitted.

The bureau will, however, endeavor to obtain information concerning the welfare of American prisoners of war or prisoners belonging to the Allied nations in the hands of the Central Powers and members of the American expeditionary forces.

The bureau will also give information as to proper methods of forwarding money to prisoners of war when permitted by the government; will transmit letters to prisoners of war held in the Central Empires, and subject to such regulations as may be established by the War Department and military authorities in France, will endeavor to secure information and answer inquiries concerning casualties suffered by American soldiers in Europe and also concerning the condition and the whereabouts of the sick, wounded or missing.

General Call on American Business to Form Service Committees in Every Branch of Industry to Co-operate with National Body is Made at Washington.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—A general call on American business to form war service committees in every branch of industry to co-operate with the government was made today by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The committees will absorb the functions of the industries committees of the Council of National Defense, which will be established under reorganization plan.

The war service committees will deal directly with the Defense Council's war industry board now negotiating government war purchases. They will assist in apportioning government orders and will aid in determining priority matters. The Defense Council's industries committees in most instances are expected to be retained as the war service committees and the only change will be that members no longer will be connected in any way with the government.

The Defense Council's committee has given cause for criticism in that committee members, acting as government advisers in making purchases, were often themselves sellers. Under the new arrangement the war service committee members will be representing only industries.

LOBBYISTS AID TO TAX BILL.

Were not Professional Kind, Simmons Explains.

Majority had Honest Interest in the Proceedings.

Finance Committee Chairman is Congratulated.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 9.—Senator Simmons, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, had a conference with the President today, and was congratulated on the war revenue bill.

Asked as he left the White House about the story in circulation to the effect that lobbyists were busy in Washington during the consideration of the revenue measure, Mr. Simmons said:

"Yes, there were more lobbyists here than ever before, but most of them were entitled to be here and to a hearing. The revenue bill, levying taxes amounting to $2,500,000,000 equally, interested more people than any other revenue bill did. A few professional lobbyists hung around the Finance Committee room until they disgusted members of the committee, but as a rule the men who came here were not paid to come; they had great or small interests at stake, and were of real service to the committee. I am sure that the professional lobbyists did not influence any member of either the Ways and Means or the Finance Committee.

"I believe that when the people understand the revenue bill they will feel that it is just and equitable. I think the taxes have been fairly and equally distributed. All persons able to pay will have to pay something."

NEW BILL IN DECEMBER.

Senator Simmons expects to have to help frame a new revenue measure at the next session of Congress, convening in December. He will begin preparations soon after Congress meets.

Mr. Simmons is not satisfied with the provisions for newspaper taxes in the revenue bill. He thinks that postal taxes should be levied in a postal measure.

"I do not believe we should impose taxes on the facilities of the Postoffice Department to defray the expenses of the war. This is one subject upon which we should not lay our hands.

"That has been my position all along. I was glad, therefore, that the postal tax we did impose shall not take effect until July, 1918. I trust that before that time arrives the Postoffice Committee will work this matter out in a satisfactory way, and that whatever additional tax it is found expedient and proper and just to impose, may be imposed, not for the purpose of raising money for the war, but for the purpose of increasing the postal facilities of the people of the United States.

as the actual evacuation without further ado. The President made it clear no longer ago than yesterday that he will not tolerate consideration of a peace until Germany submits.

When a high official of the State Department was asked today his view of the reported prospective peace offer by Berlin he said:

"An interesting bait for those who fall for it."

Sooner or later it is expected that such bait will be dangled by the Kaiser before the pacifist and pro-German elements of the United States and the Allied nations. He will expect the pacifists to rise to it and proclaim its goodness far and wide in the effort to induce others to take it. All loyal Americans, in the view of the administration, should be on their guard against such peace trickstering.

FRENCH STATEMENT.

The French high commission's statement follows:

"Both Franco-German fronts on the Aisne, 1917, and Verdun, 1916, have already been compared and it has been noted that they are practically of the same length. It has been stated that the German forces occupying them before the attack were equally comparable, i.e., twelve and fourteen divisions. It is known today that during the same period, from May to September the Germans engaged twenty-five fresh divisions at Verdun, and that they have been obliged to engage forty-five on the Aisne. Furthermore, during an equal period the French took 5863 prisoners at Verdun and 8553 on the Aisne.

"This comparison included only a small sector of the French front. But it showed a very interesting result, due to the increase of the material forces of the Allies and the improved French fighting methods since adopted by the other armies, and also, as testified by the German staff itself, apropos of the battle of the Somme, in explaining their defeat: 'To the perfect use of technical methods.'

THE COMPARISONS.

"If the above comparison is extended today to the entire Franco-English front, if you consider that from April 15 to June 15 the enemy engaged 108 divisions against the Anglo-French forces, and finally, if one bears in mind that the successes of the British offensive at Ypres obliged the enemy to engage fifteen divisions during the last ten days you can understand why the German losses on the western front grow heavier and heavier. (They admit the loss of 116,000 men during the month of May; 140,000 men are estimated by the Allied staff during the month of June, etc.)

"This is because the fighting on the western front, as a matter of fact, practically never ceases. Whether in the French sectors of Verdun or the Aisne, or in the English sectors of Arras and Ypres, the fighting is only discontinued at one point to be taken up at another. In addition to the big attacks, a quantity of carefully-prepared small actions which have been crowned with success and of which the bulletins are not able to give a clear idea, increase the attrition of the Germans.

"This constant activity, coinciding with the weakness and inaction of the Russians, also explains why the Germans are obliged to maintain, and succeed in effectually maintaining, three times larger forces on the French front than on the Russian front.

(In the beginning of the summer there were 156 German divisions to 706 kilometers on the French front, as against 130 Austro-German and Bulgarian divisions, seventy-seven of which were German, on the eastern front.)

THE RUSSIAN WINTER.

"It is known that the Russian winter practically puts a stop to all active operations, and that the reaction of the internal events in Russia on the eastern front has allowed Germany to consider it during four months as a veritable reserve for the western front.

"It clearly appears at present that the German staff, remembering the critical situation in which they found themselves following the Anglo-French success in the Somme in 1916, fears to see their western front broken by the Allied offensives in 1917.

"All the measures they have taken have been defensive in character, intended to strengthen their resistance in the face of Anglo-French forces. Not content with declining to give battle and withdrawing a portion of their front on the Hindenburg position, they have transported to the western front between January and April a certain number of divisions drawn from the eastern front. As this did not suffice they have drawn the picked men from each of their companies on the eastern front, and with the assistance of the class of 1918 have formed twenty-seven new divisions, twenty-six of which have appeared in France.

CHANGE PICKED TROOPS.

"They have exchanged their picked troops of the eastern front for the inferior ones of the western front (Landwehr.) Finally, once the battle began, in order to hold out they have successively replaced, number for number, sixteen exhausted divisions from the French front by fresh divisions from the eastern front.

"However, in spite of using all these methods, of which the latter have only been possible this year, due to the trouble made by the Russian revolution, Germany has made her supreme effort.

"This is evidenced by the two following statements, which should be compared for future enlightenment:

"(1.) After the formation of the twenty-seven divisions above mentioned, Germany had intended to create ten more divisions with the regiments of the series 601-602. Not only has she been obliged to abandon the latter part of her programme in spite of calling out a portion of the class of 1919, but she has been obliged to break up several newly-formed regiments to reinforce her fighting units, and for the first time since the beginning of the war a clear decrease in the total strength of the German forces is in record.

STRENGTH WANING.

"(2.) At the very time that her total strength is diminishing Germany finds herself obliged to increase her reserves on the French front to forty divisions, with the sole aim of providing relay and resistance. Therefore, just as the offensive strength of the Germans has been broken in the open field on the Marne and Yser and in the french warfare at Verdun, her facilities for maneuvering, that is to say, the possibility of transporting valuable reinforcements from one front to another, is prevented at present by the continuity and intensity of the Anglo-French offensive. Germany has still great powers of resistance, which will take all the Allied forces to break. She is capable of executing very rigorous local offensives. But her resources are diminishing at the very moment when the military situation requires that they should increase. That is the principal point.

"On the other hand, British and French armies have reached their full strength in men and material, and are capable, with the help of America, of maintaining the enormous strength which they have gained to the end of the war. To this strength will be added a great American army, which will arrive as quickly as possible as three years of war have demonstrated the value of time and the advantage of each day gained.

"This shows the decisive character attending the operations of 1918, in which the three great democracies, England, France and America, will unite their entire strength in attacking the enemy, in conformity to the only sound principle of war."

Confessions of an Outlaw—Painless Parker

CHAPTER LI

The "Look-at-me" gentlemen who pride themselves on being ostensibly "ethical" do their personal advertising in cultivating the Old School professional manner, the sonorous conversational voice, the ponderous tread, the impressive frown, the erudite cough, the long-tailed coat, the high hat, the foxy gloves, the Chinese herb dexter spectacles and the Latin vocabulary.

They don't know the second truth that the surest way to gain distinction is to be natural. So few are working simply that it is the unartificial fellow that is really distinctive. Wearing a wrist-watch doesn't set one apart from the rest. Too many fellows are doing that now. Buying a $10,000 motor car won't do it. Too many possess costly automobiles these days. The fact is, an individual can attain tremendous distinction by discarding all tone, all bluff, all cultivated mannerisms, and being just himself.

Human beings are mostly sheep, after all. The herd instinct cannot be eradicated. We do what the other person does; we follow his example; we ape his style of clothes, his manner of speech, his code of morals. And, strange to say, we think that gives us distinction.

Truth to tell, copying one's neighbor and following in his footsteps are what make people ethical. The dentist who has studied his professor in the dental college and learned his ways—those of the traditional professional man—and starts out as a second edition of the older and more experienced tooth-plumber, is ethical. The dentist who carves out his own methods and breaks the rule of thumb is unethical. He has refused to follow along; he has deliberately dropped out of step—and that makes him an outlaw.

But you'll admit that it gives him an individuality that the sheep don't possess.

Now, what is the purpose of this policy of mine, of practicing dentistry without the usual fol-de-rol, the "bunk" that has for hundreds of years made the polite profession a mystery to the Common People?

I have said that it has come to pass that the fellow who acts simply is really the individual with distinction. And the Painless Parker dental organization, because it doesn't try any fool-em-and-skin-em tactics, because it tells people the plain truth about their teeth, because it shows them that there is no mystery about pulling, filling or building teeth, and then, because it charges them a fair journeyman's price for a journeyman's job, has certainly achieved distinction.

WHY BLOOD SHOULD BE RED

The bright red color of the blood is caused by the presence in it of red corpuscles. It is these little bodies that carry nourishment to the tissues. They also cause the glow of health in cheeks and lips.

When the blood is deficient in these red corpuscles the person not only becomes pale but the body is undernourished, the weight is usually reduced and as the nerves share in the general starvation some form of nervousness follows. When the blood is improved in quality the tissues are better nourished and all the functions of the body are better performed.

When the blood lacks red corpuscles it is a scientific fact that a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cause them to increase. This can be demonstrated by a microscopic examination and anyone can prove it by looking in a mirror, for an increase in red blood shows quickly in the cheeks and especially in the lining membranes of the eyelids.

"Building Up the Blood" is a booklet, full of useful information. Every mother and every growing girl should have one. It is sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Government Control Soon of All Staple Foods.

President will Issue Order Within a Few Days.

To Protect Patriot Against Business Slacker.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Virtually all staple foods consumed by the American people will be put under government control November 1.

The food administration announced tonight that within a few days the President will issue an executive order requiring that manufacturers and distributors of some twenty fundamental foods operate under license restrictions designed to prevent unreasonable profits and to stop speculation and hoarding.

Regulations will be prescribed for meat packers, cold-storage houses, millers, canners, elevators, grain dealers and wholesale dealers and retailers doing a business or more than $100,000 annual in the commodities to be named.

PROTECT PATRIOT.

"The prime purpose of the food administration," the announcement said, "is to protect the patriot against the slacker in business. It has generally been recognized that the enormous obligation imposed upon the American people to feed our soldiers at the front and the Allies creates a disturbing factor in trade which allows opportunity to a few to impose burdens upon the many, and it is of vital national importance that such control should be exerted as will remedy, so far as may be, the economic disturbances incident to the war."

Issuance of the President's proclamation has been delayed, the announcement said, that the food administration might complete conferences with representatives of trades and producers and consumers. Already about 200 conferences have been held at which were planned regulations and constructive methods of control.

CO-OPERATION SOUGHT.

"It has been the desire of the food administration," the announcement continued, "to secure the co-operation of all patriotic men in the various trades so as to eliminate speculation, hoarding, unreasonable profits, wasteful practices, etc., in the great distribution system of the country.

"The licensing provision of the food bill is limited in operation to the channels of trade which lie between the farmer, on the one hand, and the retailer on the other, except as it extends to those few retailers who do an annual business of more than $100,000.

"The food administration has selected about twenty basic commodities and their products as forming the prime basis of life, and has limited its licensing control to these commodities and also, in so far as practicable, eliminated the smallest units of business in these staples.

PURPOSE STATED.

"It is the purpose of the food administration to effect conservation in the commercial use of these commodities and to keep them flowing toward the consumer in direct line through the channels of trade in as economical a manner as possible. The administration does not wish to disturb the normal and necessary activities of business, and no business factor which is performing a useful function will be expected to surrender that function.

"The administration is, however, charged with several duties.

"The producer must have a free outlet and a ready market.

"There must be no manipulation or speculation in foods.

"There must be no hoarding of foods.

"Unfair or unreasonable profits must be eliminated.

"Discriminatory and deceptive and wasteful practices, which in any way restrict supply or distribution, must be stopped.

ILLEGAL SINCE AUGUST 10.

"These are the provisions of the food law. The licensing system which was authorized by the law provided a more effective machinery for its enforcement. It must not be thought that these operations become illegal only upon the issue of licenses. They have been illegal since the 10th of August, when the law was passed, and numerous cases coming to the attention of the food administration have been corrected.

"The proclamation will require all of those handling the commodities concerned to apply for licenses before November 1, upon forms which will be supplied on application to the food administration.

"Applicants will receive licenses without cost, and the regulations governing those dealing with the commodities licensed will be issued in due course.

"After November 1 no unlicensed persons will be permitted to trade in the commodities enumerated in the proclamation."

GOVERNOR ASKS AID FOR NEW WAR LOAN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 9.—A proclamation by Gov. W. D. Stephens, urging the people of California to subscribe to the second Liberty Loan bond issue "to the limit of their ability in order that our government and our allies may be strengthened and invigorated and the fight for liberty pushed on to victory," was made public here today at the Governor's office.

"The strength of the United States has been pledged to the Allies without reservation," the Governor's proclamation said.

MILLIONAIRE BANKER BELIEVED MURDERED.

Elliott opened his inquest this morning into the death of Jesse Barker, millionaire banker and clubman, who was found dead in the bathroom of his mansion Sunday evening, W. G. It is even hinted that the shooting did not take place in the bathroom where Barker's body was found.

The committee also will present Clancy with a gold medal designed to commemorate his exploit at Vimy Ridge. Clancy is in a hospital in England, convalescing from wounds received when he was buried alive after a shell explosion.

INHERITANCE TAX.

State of Kentucky Starts Suit to Collect Between Two and Three Millions from Estate.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Oct. 9.—State Revenue Agent Walton Byers filed suit in the Jefferson county court here today to collect inheritance taxes estimated at between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 on the estate of the late Mrs. Robert Worth Bingham.

Mrs. Bingham, formerly Mrs. Henry M. Flagler of New York, died at her home in Louisville last July. The body was taken to Wilmington, N. C., where relatives who asserted they wanted the cause of her death more definitely determined caused it to be exhumed. An autopsy was performed and some of the organs sent to New York for chemical analysis, the result of which has not been announced.

Mrs. Bingham's estate is estimated at $80,000,000, including $65,000,000 in personal property.

Recovery of the minimum estimated amount of the inheritance tax, it has been stated, would be sufficient to liquidate the entire debt of the State of Kentucky.

TRADE ACCEPTANCES.

Business Men and Bankers Organize to Further Movement Planned as Credit Sustainer.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Permanent organization of the American Trade Acceptances Council was effected at a meeting here today of the joint committee on trade acceptances appointed by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the Banker's Association and the National Association of Credit Men. The new organization is an outgrowth of the war convention of American business in Atlantic City last month. A statement issued after the meeting said in part:

"Tentative plans were laid for the dissemination of information regarding prompt and widespread adoption of the trade acceptance in place of the open bank account, in order that business resources of all kinds may be kept as liquid as possible and prepared to support the increasing financial and credit necessities of the government."

TO CONSERVE TULUOL.

Necessity of Saving Gas By-product Used in Manufacturing Explosive is Urged.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—To urge the necessity for obtaining all the tuluol available from gas companies operating in the United States to be used in the manufacture of the explosive trinitrotuluol for American and British fighting forces, Charles H. Herty, former president of the New York Society of Chemists, appeared today before the Public Service Commission at its hearing on standards of gas measurements.

All of the material obtainable from these sources in a year would be but half the amount required adequately to supply 1,000,000 fighting men, Mr. Herty stated. He said this statement was authorized by Brig.-Gen. Crozier, chief of ordnance.

"I believe that this commission should take such action as will assure the full weight of barrage fire essential for the protection of the men in our ranks," he declared.

Companies will be guaranteed by the government in any risks incidental to equipping their plants for the extraction of the tuluol, the speaker said.

FIRE AT WAR PLANT.

Factory Where Parts for British Tanks are Manufactured Badly Damaged.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHARLES CITY (Iowa) Oct. 9.—The Hart Parr Company, at whose factories here many of the parts for the English tanks and much of the appliances of the new government wooden ships are built, suffered loss by fire tonight estimated at $500,000. The forging and boring department of the shell shop was destroyed.

The tank and shop work will not be interrupted, nor will the fire cause interference with the departments in which shells for the Allies have been made, as the flames were confined to one building. The cause of the fire is unknown.

MONEY FOR KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS FUND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Oct. 9.—A total of $75,000 has been subscribed in St. Louis for the Knights of Columbus army fund, it was announced today. The St. Louis allotment of the $3,000,000 fund being raised by the Knights of Columbus was $100,000.

SEGREGATION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Oct. 9.—New Orleans' segregated district, one of the largest and most notorious in the country, will be abolished within thirty days, under an ordinance adopted today by the City Commission. The action was taken at the request of Secretary of the Navy Daniels, and the new law repeals one passed by the Council twenty-five years ago legalizing the district.

CAMP KEARNY MEN BUY BONDS

Nearly Two Hundred Thousand Dollars First Day.

Soldiers' Subscriptions will Total Large Amount.

Cantonments Compete for the Biggest Sum Invested.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CAMP KEARNY, Oct. 9.—Camp Kearny soldiers are setting an example for the nation to follow in the second Liberty Bond drive. The first day's work yesterday at the camp resulted in 2248 individual subscriptions for $191,000 on bonds. Camp spirit has been aroused, and the soldiers are striving to make this the banner cantonment of the country in the purchase of the war securities.

The men are allowed to purchase the bonds on the pay-allotment plan. No initial payment is required, unless the men desire to make it. But yesterday's drive resulted in the collection of more than $3000 in amounts ranging from $2 to $600. The latter sum was paid in by First Sergeant C. B. Fugate of Supply Company 157, who subscribed for $900 in bonds. The remaining $300 he expects to pay in twelve monthly installments.

Co. C of the One Hundred and Sixtieth United States Infantry is strong after the banner for high subscriptions, and claims are advanced that it has already surpassed all other companies in average subscriptions per member.

The cantonments throughout the country are in competition for the greatest subscriptions to the loan. In each cantonment the brigades and regiments, battalions and companies will compete among themselves. The Camp Kearny competition is already keen and the soldiers are boasting of accomplishments of their own commands. One regiment has set $100,000 as its mark in the drive.

Col. Rice W. Means is leading the drive here, assisted by Lieut. R. J. Walsh, Maj. Pullmer and statistical officer for the drive. All of the officers and men at Camp Kearny must soon go before examining boards of experts, who will file the final report in the physical fitness of the soldiers. The first session of the board will be held tomorrow. The examiners are the best technical experts that could be gathered from all over the country, and it is a notable fact that about 50 per cent. of them are California men, a number from Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego.

FOUR BOARDS.

The boards are four in number—the tubercular, cardio vascular nerve and mental and orthopedic. In the first are Capts. L. R. Byrnes, James L. Whitney, W. R. P. Clark, J. A. Parks, Lieut. C. C. Browning of the board of review, John E. Fay, L. Remington, Leon Shulman, H. A. Sour and Ernest H. Falconer.

Maj. Walter Brem is the only member of the heart and circulator board, while Lieut. Lionel D. Prince constitutes the entire orthopedic board. This board examines for flat feet, curvature of the spine, deformaties of the joints and bones, etc. The nerve and mental specialists are Capt. Charles E. Sisson of the Norwalk State Hospital at Los Angeles, and Lieuts. J. W. Hill and Weiser. The boards will examine a minimum of 500 men a day, about seven minutes being the time required by each body to thoroughly inspect a man. It is estimated that from 3 to 5 per cent. of the men examined will be found deficient, and their cases disposed of as provided by the army regulations. Some will be discharged as unfit for service. Others will be given treatment, if their trouble is remediable and not chronic, and still others will be transferred into a branch of the service where their trouble will not affect the capacity of the duties that will be required of them.

Some of the men here are to have a chance to learn the cooks' and bakers' trades, as a cooks' and bakers' school is to be opened. Bakery Company No. 35 has been split and a second company, No. 51, organized. These two companies will constitute the school which will be commanded by Capt. A. C. Shepard, who has been over Bakery Company No. 35. The numerical strength of each company will be 105 men. The men necessary to fill the two companies are to be drawn from the regiments now in camp here.

An inter-regimental track meet will be held on the 21st inst. at the San Diego stadium, in which the Kearny athletes will work out.

It will be a closed meet, none but men from cantonment being allowed to compete. Plans were laid for the event today at a meeting of the athletic officers of the different organizations here.

DEVELOP ATHLETICS.

John R. Case, Jr., civilian division athletic director, is actively interested in the development of all athletic activities at the camp, and is handling the baseball, track and other schedules. The first baseball game to be played between Camp Kearny and San Diego teams is scheduled for Sunday afternoon when the old Seventh Regiment champions will cross bats with the sailors from naval training camp at the University Heights playgrounds diamond. The Golden Hill playgrounds and Co. C of the One Hundred and Fifty-ninth Infantry are to meet soon at a time and place to be decided upon.

The French classes for soldiers are to commence as soon as Lieut. Turner, detailed for special duty as divisional supervisor of French instruction for the regiment, can conclude the arrangements. Some of the men are already at work with volunteer instructors, officers and enlisted men who have resided in land of the fluer des lis.

Dealers' Convention Declares Immediate Raise in Cost of Smokes, Chews.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 9.—Increases ranging from 1 to 5 cents in the prices of cigars, cigarettes and smoking and chewing tobacco, effective immediately, were announced today by the retail cigar dealers' association here. The raise was made, dealers said, to meet the tax imposed in the war revenue bill.

The increase in prices of cigars ranged from 1 to 2½ cents each; a raise of 2½ and 5 cents was made in the prices of package tobacco, cigarettes and package cigars. The price of cigarette papers was doubled and the price of chewing tobacco that has retailed heretofore for 10 cents a plug was made 12 cents.

More Students at San Francisco Leave School to Protest Against Teachers Riding on Cars.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Another strike of schol boys to protest their teachers riding on street cars of the United Railroads, and the arrest of seven employees of the system on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, were developments today in the strike of 1750 platform men for higher wages.

Twenty boys are declared to have participated in the strike. About the same number walked out yesterday. Three schools were affected. Twenty boys from one school have been suspended. The principal of the school affected today, however, says that when he rounds up the "strikers" he will make them write compositions on the futility of school boys engaging in industrial disturbances.

WEINBERG ON TRIAL.

Jitney Bus Driver Accused of Complicity in San Francisco Bomb Plot Faces Murder Charge.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Israel Weinberg, a jitney driver, was brought to trial here today for murder growing out of a bomb explosion here in July, 1916, which claimed ten victims. Selection of a jury was expected to require about a week.

Superior Judge Frank H. Dunne, who refused recently to disqualify himself on motion of attorneys for the defense, who charged him with prejudice, announced that Superior Judge Emmet Seawell of Santa Rosa would try Weinberg. Judge Dunne gave no reason for his withdrawal.

Judge Seawell presided at the trial of Mrs. Rena Mooney, who was acquitted of one of nine indictments for murder growing out of the explosion. Two of the other six defendants in the bomb murder cases, Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, were convicted and sentenced to death and life imprisonment, respectively. Appeals in both cases are pending.

The prosecution alleges that Weinberg drove a jitney bus containing Mooney, Billings and Mrs. Mooney to the scene of the explosion, where Billings and Mooney deposited the infernal machine on the sidewalk.

Weinberg was represented by Attorneys Maxwell McNutt, Edwin McKenzie, Thomas O'Connor, Nathan Coughlan and Charles H. Brennan. Asst. Dist.-Attys. Edward A. Cunha, who prosecuted Mooney, and Louis Ferrari, who conducted the case against Mrs. Mooney, were to represent the State.

WORK OF CONGRESS REVIEWED BY PHELAN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Declarations that Congress was "one big family" in the formation of its war programme, and a summarization of its work in planning the war for democracy were contained in a statement by United States Senator James D. Phelan, who arrived here today. He said:

"What America has done in the last eight months has evoked the astonishment of the world. The leadership of the President has inspired the nation. The example of the boys going to the front to make possible the supreme sacrifice silences every selfish thought.

"It is the policy of the administration to encourage the development of the Pacific Coast and in its apointments and its contracts for shipbuilding it has given evidence of this. We have a representative on the Shipping Board, which is of the greatest importance at this time. Possibly the government may later establish a shipbuilding plant in San Francisco Bay."

Eighty thousand skunk pelts brought $220,000, and prices were about 20 per cent. higher than last April.

Word in East that Colonel May be Authorized to Raise Troops and Lead Them Abroad.

SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) Oct. 9.—A Republican today says:

Theodore Roosevelt may be given a commission as major general and authorized to raise a division to be recruited possibly from New England alone. At least it is said that it shall be organized and trained here. It is stated on authority that New England officers are favorable to the plan and are working with Mr. Roosevelt. Military men to further it. It is intimated that opposition to Washington which forced the defeat of the original plan of a Roosevelt division is now diminishing and the present plan stands a good chance of success.

It is said directly connected with the plan is the optimistic of eventual success. They assert that the colonel has more than a good chance of getting a commission, especially as regular army officers and National Guard officers are now being taken into the mobilization of the new army, and sending a force of fighting men under Roosevelt will not be without precedent. Many officers, as it would have been the first requested permission to raise a division.

New Camps.

vision will be organized at Camp Jackson from the men left over at Camps Jackson, Gordon and Pike after the three National Guard divisions (Thirtieth, Thirty-first and Thirty-ninth) have been filled.

AT CAMP GORDON.

"At Camp Gordon, after its white quota has been transferred to the National Guard and to Camp Jackson, there will be organized a National Army division made up of surplus white men drawn from Camp Devens, Camp Upton, Camp Dix, Camp Meade and Camp Lee, and at Camp Pike, after its white quota has been transferred to the National Guard and Camp Jackson, there will be formed a National Army division made up of surplus white men drawn from Camps Sherman, Custer, Grant, Taylor, Dodge, Funston and Travis.

"This plan, though somewhat different from the one originally adopted by the War Department of forming a complete National Army division composed exclusively of men from each of the sixteen National Army areas, is in full compliance with the spirit of the law of May 18, because under it each white National Army division still represents a distinct geographical area, the one at Camp Jackson being made up entirely from the white men of the extreme Southern States, the one at Camp Gordon being made up entirely from the surplus white men of the extreme Eastern States and the one at Camp Pike being made up entirely from the surplus white men of the great middle western section. On the other hand, the colored division will be made up of representatives from every part of the nation, and will be truly national.

"Also under this plan it is possible to fill each National Guard division with men drawn from the same geographical area from which the National Guard division is drawn."

DIVISION ADDED.

The new plan adds a division to the National Army organization, making seventeen divisions in that force to supplement the seventeen National Guard divisions.

The negro division probably will be designated as the Ninety-second Division, National Army. It will be mobilized as a division only when ordered to France for duty. The force will be the largest fighting unit of negro troops in the army, and the majority of its officers will come from the negro officers' training camp at Des Moines, Iowa.

The division will take in nearly 30,000 of the 88,000 negroes registered under the draft law. There will be organized in addition service units for work behind the lines. Orders were published today authorizing twenty-four of these, to be raised by voluntary transfer of drafted men or voluntary enlistment from civil life. It has been stated that 250,000 men must be sent abroad for this purpose.

Supplementing Gen. Bliss's explanation, the department issued a summary of orders governing the allotment of quotas of negro drafted men to the cantonments. With the exception of Camps Jackson, Gordon, Pike and Travis, each cantonment will accommodate all of the negro quotas from the States from which its white troops are drawn. Supplemental assignments of colored contingents to these camps have been made as follows:

Camp Upton, Yaphank, N. Y., its own supplemented by Porto Rico quota, 5500; Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J., its own supplemented by Florida quota, 4500; Camp Meade, Annapolis Junction, Md., its own supplemented by Tennessee quota, 6160; Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O., its own supplemented by Oklahoma quota, 3000; Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., its own supplemented by North Carolina quota, 7200; Camp Dodge, Des Moines, Iowa, its own supplemented by the Alabama quota, 6600; Camp Funston, Fort Riley, Kan., its own supplemented by Mississippi quota, 8300.

INNOCENT MAN HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE

NEW YORK HAS UNUSUAD CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Mining Engineer Spends Fifty Thousand Dollars in Nine Months' Fight to Clear His Name — Health Shattered by Ordeal.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—A case of mistaken identity that cost its victim $50,000 and shattered his health in a nine months' fight to set himself right was brought to light here today when, at the request of the District Attorney, an indictment charging forgery against Alexander P. Macauley, a wealthy mining engineer of Toronto, Ont., was ordered dismissed by the court. It was brought out that Macauley had been erroneously arrested in St. Louis December 30, 1916, in the belief that he was "Christmas Keough," known to the police as an alleged forger of travelers' checks.

It was Keough's practice, according to the police, to pass these checks on jewelry dealers in the Christmas shopping season.

Keough, the police said, is still at large, having eluded all efforts to catch him for several years, and it was his resumption of operations while Mr. Macauley lay here, ill from his experiences, that brought about the investigation resulting in today's action.

In moving for dismissal the District Attorney's representative expressed regret for "the humiliation and suffering of Mr. Macauley," while the judge also expressed his regret.

THE ARREST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—Alexander P. Macauley was arrested here January 3 last after one of the "Christmas" Keough checks had been passed in a local department store and an attempt made to pass another in a second store.

He asserted his innocence and furnished $10,000 cash bail.

He was identified by employees of the store on which the forged check was passed as the man who presented the check, which was on the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Toronto branch. The "Christmas" Keough checks usually were drawn on a Toronto bank.

Depositions taken here played an important part in the New York case.

BOLO POSED AS AMERICAN, TOO.

Attended Paris Meeting to Discuss Alsace-Lorraine.

Taken Into Confidence of the Delegates, Told Berlin.

Pasha's Operations in England to be Investigated.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The assertion that Bolo Pasha, under arrest in Paris as a spy and peace propagandist on behalf of Germany, posed as an American representative at a congress in Paris a month before the war started, was made in a statement issued here tonight by Daniel Blumenthal, president of the World League for the Restitution of Alsace-Lorraine.

Mr. Blumenthal, who is in the United States to advocate the return of Alsace-Lorraine to France, said he first met Bolo Pasha at the Paris assembly, which was made up of representatives of oppressed peoples. Bolo Pasha, Mr. Blumenthal said, was taken into the confidence of the delegates and what messages he sent back to Wilhelmstrasse no one can tell.

TAKES DAUDET'S DEPOSITION.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Capt. Bouchardon of the military court today was taking the deposition of Leon Daudet, editor of L'Action Francaise, concerning his allegation in connection with the Bolo Pasha case against former Minister of the Interior Malvy. In making his deposition, Daudet produced considerable documentary evidence.

An official note issued tonight says M. Daudet, in his testimony today, communicated statements made by physicians supposed to be in the confidence of the German agents in the Bolo Pasha case.

During the course of the debate in the Chamber of Deputies today arising from the Malvy incident, M. Caillaux and other Deputies demanded that the government introduce legislation amending the bill of 1881 regulating the liberty of the press. The question was discussed tonight at a Cabinet meeting, but it was decided not to make any modification in the law.

HUMBERT'S DEFENSE.

America's contribution to the investigation of the Bolo Pasha case fills literally half of the attenuated morning newspapers. Consequently, there is little room for editorial comment.

Senator Charles Humbert, in the Journal, referring to cablegrams from New York, points out that the payment of 1,000,000 francs January 31, 1916, was simply to enable him to pay back money he had paid the month before to the Lenoir family for their share in the Journal. It was agreed, the Senator said, that the balance of 4,500,000 francs was to be met by installments and it was not until he found himself called on to provide money in lump sums that he accepted Bolo's assistance.

It also appears, the Senator adds, that Bolo used his contract with him for the purpose of extracting money from Germany, the first payment being March 13, six weeks after he signed the contract with Senator Humbert.

A commission has been sent to England to investigate the operations there of Bolo Pasha.

JABEZ B. NELSON.

Associated Press Correspondent and Veteran Newspaper Man Dies in Seattle Hospital.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 9.—Jabez B. Nelson, correspondent of the Associated Press at Seattle, and widely known throughout the Pacific Northwest, died here late today from anaemia, aged 54 years.

Nelson was ordered to a hospital October 2, following an attack of the grip. October 8 his physician reported that he failed to respond to treatment, and advised transfusion of blood. Volunteers were forthcoming immediately from his office associates, and to supplement these, the Press Club, of which he was a former president, the Mountaineers' Club, authorities of the University of Washington and the editors and staffs of local papers scoured the town, while his sister, Mrs. Margaret McAdam, of Portland, hastened to his bedside.

Nelson was born in Detroit, Mich., and was unmarried.

Nelson was one of a famous group of Spanish-American War correspondents, and for a time during the war was stationed in the West Indies.

He learned the printer's trade in Port Huron, Mich. He read proof on the Portland Oregonian in 1884-1888, was telegraph editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer in 1888-89, and rose to be managing editor from 1889 to 1896. From this position he entered the service of the Associated Press in the New York office, to which he was attached until 1900. From then until 1908 he was night editor in the Kansas City office of the association, returning to New York before going to Seattle in 1909.

HOPE FOR REDUCTION IN GASOLINE PRICES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—A vision of more gasoline and possibly lower prices was seen in the belief generaly expressed today at the opening of the ninth general convention of the Independent Oil Men's Association of America, that the Standard Oil Company soon would release its patents on refining oil from lower grades for gasoline purposes.

More than 1000 members of the association are here for the meeting.

MILITARY SURGEONS MEET.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 9.—Dr. George A. Lung, medical director of the United States Navy, was elected president of the Association of Military Surgeons, which is in convention at Fort Benjamin Harrison today. Col. Edward Munson was elected to this third term as secretary, and Assistant Surgeon-General W. Colby Rucker of the United States Public Health Service was named treasurer.

ARRESTED AND HAPPY.

President's Cousin Delighted to Learn His Car is Fast Enough to Break Speed Law.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DENVER, Oct. 9.—Thomas R. Woodrow, former City Attorney, and cousin of President Woodrow Wilson, was in the speed court of Dewey C. Bailey, manager of safety, yesterday afternoon with a happy smile. He was so pleased to have been haled into the court that he couldn't suppress his smiles and the glad light in his eyes.

"So they got you, did they, Tom?" asked B. A. Sweet, the North Side realty man, and former member of the State Legislature, another victim of the traffic regulations.

"Yes," indeed," exclaimed Mr. Woodrow happily.

"You seem tickled to death about it," remarked Mr. Sweet with bitterness.

"Sure, I am," declared the lawyer.

"What's the idea?" demanded the North Side man.

"I didn't think my old boat could do twenty-eight miles an hour," replied Mr. Woodrow, "but she can, and if I ever want to sell her, I've got the record down here that I was arrested for speeding."

TAIL-END TEAMS PUT UP REAL TAIL-END ARTICLE.

TWO typical tail-end ball teams met before a typical tail-end crowd and staged a typical tail-end ball game yesterday. The official scorer, who had to stick it out to the bitter end, snored words to the effect that Oakland had committed five runs to one by Vernon.

Ed Hovlik and Speed Martin started off like Eddie Cicotte and Slim Sallee in the first inning, but in the second stanza things began to happen and from that time until the finish the bellowing of Moose Goodbred on the first-base coaching line was never stilled.

Stumpf, leading off for Oakland in the second, singled and was promptly forced at second by Miller. Rube Gardner was out advancing Miller to second. Arlett stuck around until he had watched three balls whizz by and then Hovlik, just to show how wild he could be when he wanted to, heaved the pill into the stand, Miller scoring and Arlett going to second.

Murray then singled to left and while Pete Daley was wrestling with the pellet, Arlett scored and Murray trotted to second. As has happened often before, the presence of a pitcher in the batting order saved the day, as Martin mercifully fanned.

The Tigers surprised themselves to death by getting the bases loaded, with one down in their half of the second. Daley and Galloway singled and Callahan walked, but Casey, with a great chance to wipe out the stain on the family name, hit into a double play.

The third inning was still more painful to the home talent. Mensor walked, and Middleton sacrificed. Murphy's single put Mensor on third. Murphy was out stealing and then Stumpf soused out a single, scoring Mensor. Miller singled infield and Stumpf scored, and Miller reached third on Galloway's wild heave.

Rube Gardner stalled around and walked, which set the stage for a double steal. Casey's fast throw to Vaughn and the latter's return were too good for Miller, who came lumbering down the line like a runaway "tank."

Casey crouched down with the ball in his mitt and Miller launched his mighty carcass in a thundering slide. All that could be seen from the grand stand was a cloud of dust out of which flew a ball in one direction, a big mitt in another and a very disheveled young catcher in another.

The most remarkable part of the affair is that Casey wasn't killed by the collision. Gardner reached third, where he expired as Arlett was thrown out by Callahan. Casey hurt his finger on a foul tip in the fifth and was replaced by Cook.

Cook celebrated his appearance by walking in the Vernon half of the fifth, and was promptly forced at second by his genial and generous team-mate, Ed Hovlik. Snodgrass doubled to right, sending the lean pitcher to third, and Hovlik scored on Vaughn's sacrifice fly to Mensor. Snodgrass attempted to steal third with fatal results. The score:

QUAKER-BERKELEY GAME.

Whittier had an old contract to play Berkeley, but insisted on southern conference rules for the contest. Oxy and California will play at Berkeley Saturday, October 20.

SALVADORE VICTOR IN VERNON BATTLE.

Phil Salvadore, Sacramento whirlwind, slipped one over on the Vernon Athletic Club fans when he gained a well-earned decision over Young Ketchell, local India rubber artist, in the main boxing contest last night. In the semi-wind-up Young Fritz and Leo Houck hammered each other all around the ring and into the ropes, until the last round, when Fritz became all arms and landed enough telling punches to give him the fight.

The fight between Kid Mende and Sailor Kramer, 116 pounders, kept the crowd on its feet from gong to gong, and when Mende's glove was held up at the end of the go the crowd booed. These boys will meet in a return bout two weeks from last night.

Other events on the programme were: Sailor Piotte and Walter Williams, 118 pounds, draw; Gene Watson and Al Anderson, 128 pounds, won by Anderson, and McManus and Sorti, 142 pounds, won by McManus.

WOLVERTON WILL ENTER AUTO TRADE.

Harry Wolverton, former manager of the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast League, says he has retired from baseball forever, and will enter the automobile business. His friends say if he is half as good at selling autos as he was on the baseball diamond he ought to make a record in the gasoline game.

WORLD SERIES GAME IN GOTHAM HALTED BY RA

Cicotte and Sallee on the Programme Do Twirling Today.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Heavy rain, which began shortly before noon, caused a postponement until tomorrow of the third world's series game, scheduled for today between the Chicago White Sox and the New York Giants. Rain fell during the night and early morning, but there was every prospect that the game would be played until the beginning of the heavy downpour that lasted all afternoon. The forecast for tomorrow is fair and warmer. The rain today was accompanied by a decided drop in temperature.

There was evidence that the game would have been attended by a capacity crowd for fully 15,000 spectators were in the Polo grandstands when the official announcement of the postponement was made. The lines in front of the gates extended for several blocks.

As usual, every ticket sold today had a rain check attached, which will be good only for the third game of the series. Many of these found their way into the hands of speculators. In most cases the rain checks were sold at a profit to the holders.

Under the ruling of the National Commission, the teams must remain in this city until two league games have been played. If the clubs are able to resume their struggle here tomorrow and the Giants win one or both contests, the teams will return to Chicago for a stay there next Saturday, [illegible] day as originally scheduled. If sixth game is necessary to [illegible] series, the teams will leave Saturday night and take up again at the Polo Grounds following Monday.

Many close followers of [illegible] and the Giants' adherents in particular, expressed the opinion the delay of a day or two would prove the chances of the [illegible] League representatives. It was figured that the White Sox, with their double victory, had the jump on the Giants and could [illegible] in the succession of games, afford the New York pitchers a chance to steady down and [illegible] better advantage.

The postponement proved a disappointment to [illegible] baseball enthusiasts who had come from distant points to witness the battle. Almost every city and town throughout the New England and Middle Atlantic States was represented by delegations, some small.

The consensus of opinion was that Cicotte would [illegible] Chicago tomorrow and that he would be opposed by Sallee or [illegible]

WORLD SERIES SIDELIGHTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 9.—The White Sox never were given a chance to get off their marks today. A barometric low dumped buckets of West Indian moisture over the Polo Grounds this afternoon and the scheduled third game between the Hose and the Giants is something to still look forward to.

"Fair and colder," was the prediction for today. It started to rain about 11 a.m. and continued till dark.

"Fair and warmer" is the guess for tomorrow. So far the temperature has dropped from 67 deg. at 9 a.m. to 60 deg. at dusk. The shark in the tower is doing almost as well as some of those Gotham bugs, who predicted four straight for the Giants.

If there is a game tomorrow it will be Cicotte for Chicago. We have the positive word of Manager Rowland for that. McGraw is having more trouble in making up his mind. He would like to put Sallee in again, but the experiment will call for warmer weather than the thermometer shows tonight. Most of the predictions for tomorrow favor the selection of either Schupp or Benton. So it will probably be Perritt.

Some Chicagoans who have not seen New York since they passed through the immigration station, and others who have never seen the "metropolis," probably fresh from criticisms of Rogers of the Chicago fire department called a reporter to one side and said:

"New York is it! Nobody of their grand Hotel Biltmore at this very minute there is a taxicab standing. Lad, what do you think of it? A hansom cab, which was a thriving vehicle when I was working on the Erie Canal. And (whisper) I may say that between the shafts is the nobel, distinguished looking goat that ever had a hayseed stoked on to him."

Michael Cohalan, leading a squad of Woodland Heights on random excursions, emitted this remark: "To sanples nothing less," he announced. "The price of a shot here goes up, I know. You go in one place where the booze is so young that it cries with a squirt of saltpeter in it. It is 20 cents in way place, two-bits in another, and 50 cents somewhere else. I paid a dollar for three highballs and a pail of warm beer and when I ordered a basket of olives and cheese the cashier gave me a hard look."

Other supported testimony is that local restaurant and barkeepers are like the picturesque personality and surroundings of Jesse James while trying to reconcile their callings. Also, the town has on its hands a congress of the worst waiters in the world, a few more—maybe—with slow feet, thick dialects and strange hands. A tin funeral, tossed accurately, would fit any of their heads. One finds him crying when paying 60 cents for peaches and cream served by a newly arrived Patagonian.

Keeping track of the Chicago delegation in no war resembles a Clark-street round-up. Some of them were at the aquarium at 10 o'clock in the morning, but, quoting Jo Wolf Hopper, no one of them was located in the public library reading Swedenborg.

"They needn't make up a berth for me back to Chicago if the White Sox win four straight," said Joe Jackson. "I'm going to beat it for the south by the first train out."

Tradition is against the Giants; only once have they come back and won a world's series after being "two down."

There were plenty of liquid refreshments on the White Sox special, but the ball players stood by and watched Chicago fans drink everything in sight. "The kid will be of [illegible]," said Rowland.

POLY TAKES COUNT FROM OCCIDENTAL.

Occidental varsity gave the count to Polytechnic High in a woozy demonstration of pre-season football on Patterson Field yesterday afternoon. The terms of the Tiger triumph were 21 to 6.

About the only time that the knot of bleacherites felt anything like a tanbark thrill creep along their respectable spines was early in the game, when Green of Poly got the ball on his own five-yard line and made the length of the field for the Mechanics' only tallies.

The Occidental touchdowns were made by Messrs. Betts, Odell and Gooding, respectively. There was no attempt at conversion. A field goal by "Tank" Wieman, the invincible Tiger steam roller, inflated the score to its final dimensions. Pettit at end, Smith at half and Mullen at guard seem to be doing good work for this time of the season.

The line-up:

Pasadena Entertains Former German Ambassador.

He Introduces to Him New Fruit from Uruguay.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Oct. 10.—No affair in the recent history of the local Board of Trade has equalled in interest and attendance the banquet given in honor of Hon. James W. Red, white and blue was the color scheme adopted for the decorations and was carried through, from the first flag piece, which adorned each plate's table and the elaborate display of flowers, which were scattered about on the other tables down to the boutonniere at each plate. Palms and greenery furnished a background for this lavish floral display, while making of the room a picture not soon to be forgotten. At the table with the guest of honor were Bishop J. H. Johnson of Los Angeles, City Commissioner A. Hamilton, President Fred E. Wilcox of the Board of Trade, Secretary J. H. Pearman, Dr. Charles S. Hazard Halsted, L. A. Lockhart, H. G. Chaffee, D. W. Herron, Dr. F. G. Cruickshank and J. J. Backus. Grace was pronounced by Bishop Johnson. At the close of the dinner President Wilcox introduced Mr. Gerard, who responded with an earnest and patriotic address, received by many as the most forceful call he has delivered since coming to Southern California. The ladies friends of the board members admitted to hear the speech and the name in such numbers as to fill the palmroom, the halls and every available portion of the building having hearing was possible. A menu of the banquet, provided by Mrs. W. Coolidge for the speaker's only, was a dish of the rare fruit, which was greatly enjoyed. With it was a card with the words: "A new fruit from Uruguay, destined to be one of California's new horticultural industries."

Large Crowd Attends Opening by Gov. Stephens.

San Bernardino and Redlands Help Sister City.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 9.—The fifth annual Riverside County Fair opened today with the largest attendance for an opening day. The big exhibition was set going this afternoon with an address by Gov. Stephens, who freely admitted that during the morning he had absorbed some agricultural information that would help to make him a better Governor.

"I congratulate your county on maintaining here with such success an old-fashioned county fair," said the Governor. "I regard a fair of this kind as preferable to the commercial expositions we have been featuring of late."

Sounding a patriotic note, the Governor said: "We are in this war to save America from the menace of German autocracy. If Germany wins this war she will attack America and bring all the horrors of war as waged by the Germans home to our doors. If Germany wins, the form of agriculture represented here will have little place in the world."

The Riverside Home Guards, who entertained the crowd with an exhibition drill, were declared by the Governor to be the best drilled organization in the State, outside the regular army troops.

The exhibits, which are the most extensive ever displayed at the fair, were all in place for the opening, and are housed in numerous buildings and huge tents, covering a tract of forty-two acres. The community farm exhibits are to the front this year, and San Bernardino and Redlands have entered the lists against the varied products of Riverside county, ranging from the dry farm wonders of the Murrietta district to dates grown in the Coachella Valley.

United States Engineer Reports on All-American Canal to Imperial Valley.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, Oct. 9. — After spending three months going over the mesa land irrigation project, J. F. Richardson, United States surveyor, stated today that the project of tunneling fifteen miles under the sand hills to bring the water from Laguna Dam to the mesa in California territory was a feasible one.

The engineer did not venture an estimate of the cost of the tunnel and almost 100 miles of open canals. Estimates of the cost vary from $8,000,000 to $20,000,000. Mr. Richardson said that 400,000 acres of mesa land could be irrigated from such an "all-American" canal. He said that the reinforced concrete tunnel to bring 4000 feet of water to the mesa would in some places be 100 feet below the surface.

Engineer P. J. Preston of the United States Reclamation Service has arrived here to assist in making a report to the Secretary of the Interior preliminary to the opening of the mesa land to entry.

APPEALS TO BISHOP IN PREDICAMENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CALEXICO, Oct. 9. — Superior Judge Cole today enjoined Father Ramon Ferrer or any member of the congregation of Our Lady of Guadalupe from ringing the bell on the church before 7 o'clock a.m. This action compels the priest to depart from the age-old custom of ringing the Angelus at 6 o'clock, and he has appealed to the bishop at Los Angeles in his predicament. The temporary injunction was granted at the request of City Attorney Butcher, who said he made it on behalf of the people of Calexico. He said the ringing of the bell for 5 o'clock mass and for the Angelus at 6 o'clock disturbed Calexicans who desired to sleep as late as 7 o'clock. It is probable that a Los Angeles attorney will appear for the church when the permanent injunction is argued on November 1.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDALE, Oct. 9.—With a Christmas tree ablaze with lights, and loaded with mysterious-looking packages, the British Ambulance Society gave a pre-holiday party this afternoon at Ye Ginger Tavern, for the purpose of collecting gifts for the soldiers at the front. Almost everyone brought gifts, which were put in socks or packages, and included everything from tobacco to preserves. A number of those attending gave $1.25 to be sent to London to purchase a hamper of goodies for some "Tommy" or "Sammy." Tea was served later in the afternoon, and was followed by a programme.

Among the entertainers on the programme, in charge of Miss Ina Whitaker, secretary of the society, were Frances Harrower, Dr. Harrower, Mrs. Calvin Whiting, Mrs. C. L. Peckham, Mrs. Crawford, Dr. C. D. Lusby and Dr. Charles R. Lusby. Sketches were given by the Ralston children, Glendale's little Shakespearean actors, and a talk on thrilling experiences in the trenches by Corp. Bryson of the First Canadian Expeditionary Force.

Mrs. W. H. Walters, president of Glendale British Ambulance Society, was in charge of the tree and gifts; Mrs. Frank England, chairman of refreshments. Noticeable among the many pretty booths was the candy booth in charge of Mrs. Reginald Whitaker. Dancing was the chief diversion of the evening and there was a pleasing variety of fancy costumes.

WHALE TO BLAME.

Odor that Permeates Coast of Santa Barbara Due to it and Not to Kelp.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 9.—A whale seventy-two feet in length, which died at sea, got the government kelp-treating plant at Summerland in bad with the community for miles around today. It drifted onto the beach and wafted evidence of its presence over the country for miles. The public at once jumped to the conclusion that the odors came from the plant, and general remonstrance arose.

Supervisor H. S. Deaderick had the whale strapped with heavily-filled sandbags and the government barge towed it to sea, hoping to sink it. The bouyancy of the whale overcame the weight of sand and the tide brought the body ashore at Serena. County officials are seeking how to get rid of the undesirable carcass. The huge skeleton will be offered free to Long Beach for its whale bone exhibit if that city agrees to tow the carcass away as it is.

DIES AT SANTA ANA OF BROKEN SKULL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, Oct. 9.—Joseph A. Mathews died at the Santa Ana Hospital of a broken skull received this afternoon when his automobile turned over in a ditch on South Main street. He turned his machine as he passed by one driven by Sherman Emett of Santa Ana, and lost control. He was 54 years old, and lived for a time at Harper and Newport Beach, in this county. Letters show his address to have been at one time No. 101½ East Twenty-first street, Los Angeles, and also that he was in close touch with the Y.M.C.A. in Los Angeles. He was a carpenter. His wife died last May.

FINDS EVIDENCE OF ATTEMPTED ARSON.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 9.—Sheriff Ralph M. Conklin and his deputies today found more evidence of attempted arson in San Diego county. Two firebug outfits were uncovered beneath the Bonita packing-house and another beneath the plant of the San Diego Land and Town Company, Chula Vista. The entire back country is alarmed, and heavy guards have been placed around every warehouse. The loss of 1500 sweat boxes of the Bostonia Fruit Growers' and Packers' Association will seriously hamper the work of the raisin pack this year, the raisins being practically ready for packing.

HELPS TO IDENTIFY BODIES OF DEAD.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 9.—As a means of aiding Chief Butler of Los Angeles in conducting the work of a new bureau for the identification of dead persons, Walter Todd, a local undertaker, has five years of records. Since 1912 Mr. Todd has not only taken photographs of unidentified dead persons, but also finger-prints. Two years ago he was able to establish the identity of a man who had been dead four years. He published the picture in Los Angeles newspapers. A Pomona man saw the picture and identified the body.

On account of the records he keeps Mr. Todd has had few cases where persons who died were unidentified, and no women have been buried unidentified in eleven years.

The city's allotment is $3,000,000 and members of the committee predicted tonight that San Diego will oversubscribe the amount by at least $1,000,000. A pleasing feature of the subscription list here is the liberal allotment taken by San Diego banks.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COLTON, Oct. 9.—Refutation of the prophecy that Colton as a "dry" town would be a "dead" town this winter is given in the re-establishment of two business houses. CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING.

WHITTIER PIONEERS HONORED BY MANY FRIENDS.

Founder of Register and His Wife are Recipients of Congratulations at Interesting Ceremony Held in Bible School Building of First Friends Church.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Oct. 9.—More than 100 relatives and friends gathered at the Bible school building of the Friends Church today to celebrate the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon D. Williams, pioneers of this city. The affair was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Williams were married at Sugar Creek, Iowa, and their wedding dinner was served at the home of Lydia Heald Sharpless, who died last year at the age of 106. Mr. Williams was one of the founders of the Iowa Daily Capital and was a leader in prison reform work. He and his wife came to California in 1887. He founded the Whittier Register and was connected with it for sixteen years. It was here that their son, Harry A. Williams, a well-known baseball writer, began his newspaper career.

HUMANE WORK IS UP TO CONSTABLES.

The Los Angeles City Humane Society was denied an appropriation of $400 a month yesterday. Chairman Hamilton thought that some financial help should be extended to the society, but Supervisor Dodge stated that he believed the work should be done by the forty-two constables of the county, and this view was concurred in by a majority of the board. Mr. Dodge asserted that the constables must perform these duties if they desire to retain their positions.

DISAGREE ON STREETS.

When the custody of Franklin Leroy Cline came before Judge Valentine yesterday one of the issues dividing his parents, Franklin L. and Ethel Cline, was whether Mrs. Cline had strayed from Broadway to Main street. Mr. Cline claimed that she came home one night under the influence of liquor, but Mrs. Cline, with upraised hand, declared she had not been off of Broadway. A divorce suit is pending between the couple. The court stated he would not give the son to either parent, placing it with a third party until the divorce action is tried.

PETITIONS PUT OUT.

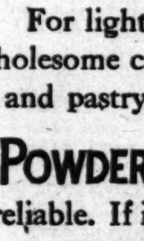
[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Oct. 9.—With more or less secrecy, petitions seeking a "wet" and "dry" election were circulated today. They are supposed to have emanated from the Anti-Saloon League of Los Angeles.

A FRIEND'S ADVICE

Woman Saved From a Serious Surgical Operation.

Louisville, Ky.—"For four years I suffered from female troubles, headaches and nervousness. I could not sleep, had no appetite and it hurt me to walk. If I tried to do any work, I would have to lie down before it was finished. The doctors said I would have to be operated on and I simply broke down. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the result is I feel like a new woman. I am well and strong, do all my own housework and have an eight-pound baby girl. I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which every woman dreads."—Mrs. Nellie Fishback, 1521 Christy avenue, Louisville, Ky.



Everyone naturally dreads the surgeon's knife. Sometimes nothing else will do, but many times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved the patient and made an operation unnecessary.

If you have any sympton about which you would like to know, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free.

Here is the golden opportunity that you have been waiting for; in fact, it is even better than you have hoped for. Good land with water, in the best location, at a price one-half that of any surrounding property, at a price far less per acre than a large subdivision firm paid for a tract of over 500 acres less than 10 miles away.

It is impossible for anyone else to compete with our prices. This property is being sold direct by OWNERS and you save all the subdivider's and middleman's profits.

Compare our prices with anything between Los Angeles and the Harbor and you will realize what a grand buy we now offer you.

Come in and make YOUR reservation now. The opening sale will take place Sunday, October 14. Autos will leave our office at 9:30 and 11 a.m. and 1:30 and 3 p.m.

This is not a joyride; there will be no free lunches, nor long speech rides or anything of that sort; this is a business deal between you and the owners who are cutting out every possible expense to give you the best and most profitable prices. All are welcome. We will be glad to show you without obligation on your part.

You have to be shown. Well, we will show you absolutely the best buy on the market. Come in or phone us now for full particulars. Open evenings until 8:30.

CONVICTS FOR ARMY PLANNED.

Resolution Adopted by Prison Society Favoring Move to be Sent to President.

Endeavoring to secure the release of thousands of men now inmates of prisons all over the United States, who, they state, would make ideal soldiers for Uncle Sam, the California Prison Society, composed of sociological and economic workers of California have passed a resolution, copies of which will be sent to every Governor, the President, the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy.

The gist of the resolution contains the argument that many men of military age who have been incarcerated through being the victims of social or economic environment would prove good soldiers. In support of this contention the cases of 7000 British convicts who were released and many of whom received the Victoria Cross are cited.

The committee's suggestion contemplates the organization of regiments which would be known as Regiments of Honor or Regiments of Redemption, to which the convicts would be assigned.

CHIEF SENDS TART REPLY.

Police Head at Bay City Tells Angeleno Youth is Safe in Gate City.

According to Chief of Police White of San Francisco, a sixteen-year-old boy is really safe in the Bay City. Yesterday Chief White was surprised to learn that H. C. Laurence of this city, who was the sender of a message regarding his daughter's young brother, had some doubts as to the possible safety of a young fellow if he visited the Golden Gate. Laurence said:

"My daughter, Mrs. Alice Safatovich, wishes her sixteen-year-old brother to pay her a visit for two weeks. She is lonesome. Do you think it advisable to let him go?

Chief White replied guardedly. He said that he thought that the boy would be all right in San Francisco if he was careful. He added that there were several sixteen-year-old boys in San Francisco, and that he had no reason to suppose that they were not safe enough.

MAKE MONEY IN PIGS.

This is the story of a venture in pigs vouched for by Supervisor Dodge. In May John Haisch gave two pigs to Juvenile Hall. In July the pigs were traded off for four smaller pigs. The latter were shipped to the County Farm, fattened from the refuse, and yesterday they were sold to the Cudahy ranch for $150. The money will be turned over to Juvenile Hall by Mr. Dodge and used for the inmates of that institution.

Lemon Juice is Skin Beautifier, Also a Whitener

Many women use just the juice of lemons to bleach or whiten the skin, but pure lemon juice is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with orchard white.

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to bring back to any skin the whiteness, the sweet freshness and flexibility of which it has been robbed by carelessness or trying atmospheric conditions.

Hearing is Postponed.

The Council, sitting as a committee of the whole, yesterday afternoon postponed for three weeks the hearing on the question of whether the Fox Film Company shall be permitted to operate its plant in Hollywood. The delay was ordered because of the fact that the matter is to be taken up with the president of the company, who is in New York. It is expected he will give an ultimatum when the hearing is held. Complaints against the plant have arisen over the alleged fact that the motors make so much noise that the peace and quiet of the neighborhood is unnecessarily disturbed.

SENATOR HENRY H. LYON IS SHOT BY A WOMAN.

Girl with Police Record Whom He Accuses is Arrested; Denies It. He will Recover.

STATE SENATOR HENRY H. LYON, 54 years old, prominent Progressive" politician, was shot through the left shoulder at 8:30 o'clock last night in front of the apartment at No. 950 Stanford avenue by a woman. He accuses the woman, also known as Marie Pinson, 23 years of age, and she was arrested three hours afterwards and booked in the City Jail. She denied the shooting. Mrs. Lyon witnessed the occurrence. She is prostrated. Senator Lyon will recover.

Statements made by the police indicate that Miss Pinson has known Miss Pinson several years. They say she tried to commit suicide several days immediately following the shooting. Mr. Lyon, who is at the Angeles Hospital, made no further statement.

At 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, it appears, Miss Pinson hired a taxicab at the home of No. 978 El Molino avenue, from a cabmen driver for the Yellow Cab Company. From Fourth and Spring streets they drove to Seventh and Main streets, where the woman bought some wine. She was then driven to Seventh and Central avenue, and then to Fourth and San Pedro streets, where she entered a rooming-house and remained for half an hour. She told Barton to drive her to Stanford and Stanford avenue, where she alighted from the car and walked up to the apartment-house.

THE SHOOTING.

Senator Lyon's automobile was standing in front of his home. In it was Barton, former poundmaster. Miss Pinson approached the automobile entrance, Mr. Lyon closely followed by his wife, descended and walked towards his car. As Miss Pinson attempted to enter the car, and he turned his head to enter his automobile, to several witnesses, stepped to enter the automobile Miss Pinson fired a revolver at him, crying, "I've got you now." The bullet went wild and a second shot, which struck. The bullet penetrated Senator's left shoulder and lodged in his left jaw. He fell to the ground and, while his wife knelt over his prostrate body, Barton hurried back to her car and pointed her revolver at Chauffeur Barton, the latter driving him to drive as fast as he could to Eighth and Francisco streets.

The first police officer on the scene of the shooting was Patrolman Howard Proffitt, the man on the beat. To him Mr. Lyon made the following statement as he lay on the ground:

"Marie Edwards got me. Go get her. She's at No. 552 South Fremont."

Mr. Lyon was carried into the yard of his home by Mr. Vache and Dr. Edward R. Hanlon of No. 1156 Central avenue was called. Dr. Hanlon ordered the wounded man transported to the Angelus Hospital, where the bullet was extracted from his jaw. At a late hour last night he was reported to be resting easily. The bullet did not penetrate his lung.

While en route to No. 810 Francisco street, Miss Pinson threw her revolver away, the police say. From the apartment-house she telephoned Mr. Lyon's home to learn how he was. She later told Mrs. Jessie Elliott, the landlady of the house on Francisco street, that she was going into Central Station to give herself up. Detectives Shy and Hurt arrived at this address two minutes after she left it.

ARRESTED AT HOSPITAL.

A cordon of detectives was thrown around the city by Capt. Home. Every outgoing train and automobile bus was being watched lest she should try to escape. At 9 o'clock Miss Pinson telephoned the Angelus Hospital and was told that Mr. Lyon wished to see her. She boarded a street car and at the hospital was placed under arrest by Detectives Blue and Leon.

En route to Central Station she told the detectives that she didn't care what was done to her now. Later, in answer to questions by Capt. Home, Miss Pinson refused to admit the shooting. She said that she had seen the legislator in front of his home last night, and that she talked with him there. She denied shooting him, and when questioned as to the cause of the attack, she refused to answer.

Barton was released on his own recognizance by Capt. Home.

STORIES OF WITNESSES.

Mrs. Lyon reported the assault to Officers Whaples and Proffitt, telling them that she was standing near her husband when a woman walked toward him, talked with him for a few seconds, and then when he

NAMES OF FOUR GIRLS ENTER DEATH MYSTERY.

Slane Now Denies Botwin Murder and Says He Took Blame to Shield the Real Slayer.

THE names of four young women last night entered prominently into the case of Otis Dan Slane, held by the Sheriff's office on the technical charge of stealing an auto from Israel Botwin, No. 1537 Bridge street, but who is to be surrendered to the San Diego authorities in connection with the murder of Mr. Botwin, last Wednesday afternoon at a lonely spot on the palisades, overlooking the Pacific, about six miles south of Oceanside.

While on the surface the crime was seemingly committed for the sole purpose of robbing the owner of the car and later selling it, it is intimated that four girls, one of them employed at a downtown department store, may be drawn into the affair.

Through this investigation the authorities intimate they may be able to solve other crimes, including a murder, which have heretofore baffled them.

CONFESSES, DENIES.

Slane has confessed and denied the murder several times. And in another breath has admitted that while he was not an actual participant in the taking of the life of the aged Los Angeles chauffeur, he assumed all responsibility to shield the actual murderer. This man, he claims, he only knows by his first name, Harry, but being close friends, he was even willing to commit suicide in his efforts to hide this friend's identity.

Slane did try to take his own life at El Centro by swallowing a quantity of cyanide, but, as he said, "I threw it up; it would not rest upon my stomach, because the truth must out."

The facts leading up to this unusual condition of affairs, as gathered by the county authorities, and from bits of confessions made by Slane, are as follows:

A week ago yesterday Slane, who says his parents are wealthy, and reside at Saguache, Colo., and another young man said to be Harry Brant, hired Mr. Botwin, who had his taxi stand at Fourth and Hill streets, to drive them to San Diego.

Slane was attired in an officer's uniform, having recently been honorably discharged from the officers' camp at Fort Riley, Kan. He enlisted from Denver, his purported home, but was finally rejected because of physical disability.

Brant, which, the authorities say is not his true name, was in civilian clothes. It is he who escaped from the El Centro officers, that the Sheriff's office is most anxious to locate.

BOTWIN SLAIN.

The trio went to Long Beach where they remained over night. They drank freely, according to Slane. A week ago this morning they left for San Diego. Several miles south of Oceanside Mr. Botwin was murdered. Slane said they had stopped to fix a tire, and while he was looking at the ocean from the brink of the palisades, he says Harry killed the man with an auto jack.

Together they rolled the body down the cliff, and secreted it under the bluff, covering it with an auto robe, sea weed and brush. They then went to San Diego, and from there to Brawley and El Centro. At the latter place Slane says he tried to dispose of the car for a lighter one, his intention being to proceed across the desert to Colorado.

Harry, so Slane says, brought trouble upon themselves by speeding the car through the streets of Brawley and El Centro. When Slane was taken into custody on suspicion of having a stolen car in his possession, he was instrumental in enabling Harry to make his getaway by assuming all responsibility.

Why he should do that, knowing

FEUD EXPENSIVE.

Cost Damages Given in Slander Suit Sequel to Pico-street Neighborhood Row.

A fight that apparently arose over the objection of Mrs. Vivian M. Engstead to the children of her neighbors in the vicinity of No. 3056 West Pico street, playing with her own children, resulted in Mrs. Florence Goodhall suing Mrs. Engstead for $25,000 damages and costs amounting to $550, yesterday. The costs were the amount a jury in Judge Monroe's court allowed Mrs. Goodhall, who alleged that she had been slandered. Mrs. Engstead, it is said, applied a number of epithets to Mrs. Goodhall which reflected on her good name. A policeman testified that from the condition of the women's clothing it was evident that there had been a scrap, with honors even.

NORTON JURY STILL OUT; PASS ON HALF OF CASE.

THE jury trying R. H. Norton of the Second Supervisorial District for willful misconduct in office, in the alleged mismanagement of county funds, resulting in a deficit in the treasury of $1,250,000, retired to consider the evidence at 4:35 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The jury was locked up at 11:30 p.m., without having reached a verdict.

At the hour of retiring, the jury was about half through considering the evidence that was introduced in arguing the several counts. Twice during the evening the jury returned to the courtroom and asked for further information in regard to the percentage of appropriation that could be spent during the first six months of any year by the Supervisors. Mr. Norton was summoned from home to answer any questions that the jury might want to ask in regard to points in his testimony, but none was asked.

The instructions of Judge Wilbur to the jury consumed three hours in the delivery and covered every intricate point. These concerned the law in the case and the instructions desired by the defendent and Chief Deputy District Attorney Cryer. The jury was instructed to find for the defendant on the charge that Mr. Norton had collected mileage illegally between his home and the Courthouse. The court also instructed the jury that the Supervisors are presumed to know the law.

The court said, with reference to the charge of illegally collecting mileage for Mr. Norton's trip to San Francisco to attend the motor vehicle conference, that the claim was not a legal one, but that it must be shown that Mr. Norton acted in bad faith. On each of the other counts, there being ten in all, it must be shown beyond a reasonable doubt that Mr. Norton, as Supervisor, had acted willfully in violating the law.

The other counts included illegal authorization of the purchase of school bonds; illegal juggling of funds; claims allowed when no funds for payment were available, and failure to supervise the official conduct of the County Auditor and the County Treasurer. The fight was on technical grounds, and the same counts apply to Supervisors Hamilton and Woodley and County Treasurer Hunt and County Auditor Lewis. The jury has heard evidence eleven court days.

AMERICAN TROOPS IN FIRST LINE TRENCHES.

Letter Received Here Announces Their Arrival on the Arras Front Under Heavy Fire.

AMERICAN troops are now in first-line trenches on the Arras front, taking a full share in the offensive and defensive fighting which, from the beginning, has marked the winning and holding of that bloody sector.

This epochal news, believed to be the first intimation of the fact, except in unpublished official reports, to reach America, is contained in a letter received from Rupert Rayner, with the Canadian forces, to his father, Sergt. C. Rayner, of the staff of the local British and Canadian recruiting office in the San Fernando Building.

According to the letter, which gives some details of exact location that cannot be published, the American forces are holding a small section immediately to the right of the Canadians, arriving there under heavy shell fire.

That this German bombardment does not especially disturb the Sammies in inferred by the letter's writer, who continues that, upon the Americans' arrival, the Canadians immediately challenged them to a game of baseball. The game was played—between skirmishes and under serious difficulties—he goes on, and the Canadians won. He did not give the score.

Sergt. Rayner of the Canadian Scottish has just returned from hospital after nearly three years of the war, to join the British recruiting staff here. He and his three sons all enlisted with the Canadians at the outset of the war. He wears the uniform of the Canadian Scottish, with the bonnet and kilt, spleuchan, spats and bare knees all complete. He is a grandfather, too, but a soldier from the beginning when, in Scotland, he enlisted with the Imperial Cameronians. But America can claim these three fine sons, for they were all born in Louisville, Ky., and only joined the Canadians at the outset of the war when the United States was still neutral.

In this war Sergt. Rayner has been through the mill from the beginning. He weathered the first gas attacks and his kilt bears the evidence to this day. He saw his worst ordeals at Arras and Vimy ridge, where he was of the contingent that

In the Synagogue.

PROMINENT JEW KISSES TORAH AND DROPS DEAD.

DEATH in a dramatic form came on Monday night to Louis Goldberg of No. 634 Sunset boulevard, and prominent in Jewish circles. Mr. Goldberg expired in Synagogue Beth Israel just after he had kissed the Torah. He died while he lay in the arms of his brother, Philip Goldberg.

Mr. Goldberg, who was a deeply religious man, and the founder of the Congregation Beth Israel, was a little late in reaching the "Simchath Torah" services at the tabernacle on Olive street, near Temple, Monday night. The services were already in progress when he stepped in, and within a moment thereafter, Rabbi Werne passed along with the Torah, in the peculiar ceremonies of the day. He paused beside Mr. Goldberg, extended him good wishes, and then, as Mr. Goldberg reverently bent over the Torah and kissed it, he began to make reply, but only a few words passed his lips when he dropped. His brother caught him in his arms, and death was almost instantaneous.

Relatives of the man became hysterical, and for a few moments there was almost a panic in the congregation. The cries for water with which to try to revive the man were taken by some to indicate that the synagogue was on fire. The meeting was hastily adjourned, and every possible means was taken to try to restore the life of the stricken man.

The funeral services will be held Thursday forenoon at 10 o'clock at the family residence, conducted by Rabbi Werne and members of Congregation Beth Israel. The interment will be in Beth Israel Cemetery, of which Mr. Goldberg was one of the founders.

Mr. Goldberg was 53 years of age. He was a native of Warsaw, and came to America twenty-seven years ago. He first located in Chicago, and there he joined a colony of fifty Polish Jews, who came to California to locate on lands near Riverside. The disastrous outcome of that ill-advised selection of land is a matter of past real-estate history, and the members of the colony were forced to scatter out and leave their lands.

Mr. Goldberg came to Los Angeles and entered the men's furnishings business, which he conducted until about six years ago, when he retired. A short time ago, however, he re-entered this business, and at the time of his death conducted a store at No. 1230 East Seventh street. He was possessed of considerable improved real estate in Los Angeles.

Besides his wife, Mr. Goldberg leaves two sons, Benjamin and Joseph, both of this city; fourth daughters, Misses Ida and Esther Goldberg and Mrs. H. L. Zuckerman of Los Angeles, and Mrs. L. S. Offer of Salt Lake City, who will arrive here this morning.

About eighteen years ago Mr. Goldberg was instrumental in founding the Congregation Beth Israel, and ever since the founding of the Kaspare Cohn Hospital he had been a member of its board of directors. He was also a member of the Hebrew Sheltering Association and other benevolent and charitable organizations, and held membership in the Western Star, a Jewish order, and Semi-Tropic Lodge, I.O.O.F.

MAN-WOMAN'S TROUBLES END.

Prof. Eugene de Forest Passes Away After Remarkable Career.

Prof. Eugene de Forest, 69 years old, the man-woman, whose strange case has puzzled the medical authorities of Los Angeles county for some time, died yesterday at the County Hospital after an illness of several weeks of unresolved lobar pneumonia. She will be buried Wednesday at Evergreen.

Prof. De Forest, whose maiden name was May Bradley, was a graduate of Yale, and for years has been a prominent figure in dramatic circles both of Los Angeles and San Francisco. She was brilliant in her particular field and was equally eccentric. Years ago she adopted male attire after the death of her husband, J. M. Hart, a San Francisco newspaper man. She repeatedly played male roles on the stage and for years was directing head of the De Forest School of Dramatics. She was formerly associated with Mme. Janauschek, the actress. She once married a woman, but the union was almost immediately dissolved by legal process.

NO CLAIMS ALLOWED PROPERTY OWNERS.

Owners of property who were assessed for the lowering of North Broadway but who received no damage awards from the city must carry their claims into the courts. The Council yesterday refused to instruct the Board of Public Works to pay the claims.

Those asking for damages on Grand avenue were informed that the Board of Public Works and the Council had said that no claims were to be allowed property owners.

PLEADS GIUILTY.

Earl Gobel of No. 624 Cypress avenue, Pasadena, yesterday pleaded guilty before Superior Judge Willis to a charge involving Ione Chapin, aged 12. The crime is said to have been committed on the 12th ult. Gobel asked for probation, which application will be heard next Tuesday.

Conference Appoints Methodist Preachers in South.

Dean of College Scores the State Divorce Laws.

Attempt to Curtail Use of Tobacco in Army Fails.

Bishop Adna W. Leonard closed the forty-second annual Southern California Methodist conference at Long Beach last night with the reading of a list of appointments of several hundred ministers throughout the Southland.

It has not been decided where to hold the annual conference next year. Los Angeles was suggested by Dr. Charles Locke, but it was practically decided to hold the sessions in some city in the orange belt, Redlands, Riverside or San Berdardino being under consideration.

Dean Ezra A. Healy of the McClay Theological Institute of Los Angeles startled the audience at yesterday afternoon's session of the conference when he declared that a condition bordering on that of free love prevails in the State of California because of the laxity of the divorce laws. Dr. Healy brought out the fact that while the church recognized but one cause for divorce the State recognized etc.

The Public Morals Committee's report as adopted this afternoon declared for a more strict observance of the Sabbath, the enactment of a Sunday law in California that will give a day of rest to all workers, the reading of selections from the Bible in all public schools at least once a day and a strict enforcement of the redlight abatement act.

One member of the conference endeavored to introduce a resolution condemning the use of cigarettes in the army and navy and restricing the use of tobacco to one cigar br one pipeful after each meal. The resolution was killed.

Statistics submitted in the annual report showed that the conference had gained a membership of 714 members since last year, bringing the total membership up to 52,051. There are now 281 churches in the conference. The average preacher's salary was found to be $1168 per year.

DRIVE FOR SIGNATURES.

Anti-Saloon League Forces Expect to File Petitions Next Monday.

Plans were made yesterday by the Anti-Saloon League forces to make a drive during the next few days for signatures to supplement petitions which they expect to file with the City Clerk next Monday. To make sure that they will obtain enough signatures the officials employed workers to circulate the petitions. Heretofore the circulators have been volunteers.

The City Clerk has a large crew working on the petitions filed last Saturday. It is reported that many of the signatures have been invalidated owing to various causes. In many instances the persons who signed their names made errors and it was stated that some of the circulators were not registered voters. Such petitions must be discarded.

That he will have no difficulty in procuring 16,500 bona fide signatures is the assertion of Supt. Gandier of the Anti-Saloon League. He expects to secure 10,000 by this week's drive.

HEAR TESTIMONY IN AUTO DEATH CASE.

Hearing of testimony in the case of Dr. F. S. Harden against the Santa Fe to recover $10,000 damages for the death of his 13-year-old daughter, Mildred, who was killed at Irvine Station, May 6, 1916, when an automobile driven by William R. Ruess was struck by a train, began yesterday in United States District Judge Trippet's court. Mr. Ruess's two daughters, Dorothy and Muriel, were killed in the same accident. It is claimed by Dr. Harden that no signal, either by bell or whistle, was given as the train approached the crossing, and that it was going at a speed of sixty miles an hour at the time. This the defense denies. Mr. Ruess was the principal witness yesterday.

These men, with Stoddard Jess, president of the First National Bank; J. E. Fishburn, president of the Merchants' National Bank, and J. F. Sartori, president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, compose the newly-elected board of directors.

"The sense of the meeting," said Mr. Smith last night, "was confidence in business conditions, and a belief that the withdrawal of deposits for investment in Liberty Loan Bonds, coupled with the continued upward trend of prices, will in nowise hamper industry."

JAPAN SOLVES GERMAN PLOTS.

Mikado Representative Here Bares Duplicity.

Paid Agents Said to Have Engendered Hate.

Purpose to Stir Nippon to War with America.

"German duplicity, fostered by paid German agents, who for years have been engaged in spreading a subtle propaganda calculated to create a misunderstanding as to motives between the governments of Japan and the United States, has been responsible for the cloud of suspicion and mistrust that has existed between our countries, and we come now at this propitious moment as representatives of the people of Japan to speak directly to the representatives of the people of the United States, who are now our allies, in order that we may establish once and for all a basis for mutual respect and confidence."

This was the statement made last night by Dr. T. Masao, M.P., of Tokio, chief of the special mission from the House of Representatives of Japan to the President and the people of the United States.

These facts are further buttressed by an interview given by Gichi Yamada, one of the leading journalists of Japan, editor of the Kokumin Shimbun, the official organ of the Japanese Nationalist party, one of the leading political parties of the empire, who is now in Los Angeles, in which he says: "Japan has for years been at a loss to account for the change of sentiment that seemed suddenly to have taken place in the United States, and also for the regular appearance in our press of leading articles tending to arouse the people of Japan against their great and friendly neighbor on the eastern shore of the Pacific.

POISON INTRODUCED.

"It is also significant that this propaganda began almost immediately after the taking of the Philippine Islands by the United States, a move which Germany very much disapproved of. What Japan hopes for is that an understanding may be entered into between it and the United States, with the approval of their principal European allies, England, France and Italy, whereby Japan and the United States will each respect and mutually agree to protect the others' rights in the Pacific."

Mr. Yamada is the author of a book entitled "Japan Should Expand on the Pacific." This work advocates the holding by Japan of all the island possessions of Germany captured in the war. It is moderate in its tone, however, and the writer declares that these islands should only be retained if the United States is willing that such be the case. This he confidently hopes, to use his own words, "will meet with the full sanction of our great and powerful neighbor in the Pacific."

LIKES LOS ANGELES.

Dr. Masao is delighted with Los Angeles and Southern California. He has been shown every courtesy by Dr. A. J. Scott and Frank P. Daggett of the Chamber of Commerce, and is exceedingly profuse in his expressions of appreciation. "I never saw such wonderful roads as you have here," he said.

"Your buildings are stately and of solid structure, your streets and avenues are my delight. Your lovely homes make my heart beat with pleasure to such happy people, all so busy with big work to do, makes me wish I was one of you. You have so many of my own people here who are prosperous, and they live in such content under your wise and liberal laws. America is a great and wonderful country, and Japan but delights to be her good friend and close neighbor, so that we may both expand and develop along the lines best suited to our moral, political, social and economic ideals."

The men comprising the special mission are direct representatives of the Japanese Diet, or House of Representatives. They also represent the predominant political parties of the nation, namely the Nationalist and Constitutionalist parties. They are Dr. T. Masao, T. Shimada, H. Yamani, N. Yehara and K. Mochisuki. The party arrived at Los Angeles yesterday morning and were met at the depot by Consul Oyama and taken to his home at No. 2913 South Harvard boulevard for luncheon. In the afternoon Dr. A. J. Scott and a committee from the Chamber of Commerce gave the distinguished visitors an automobile trip around the city and county. They were guests at a dinner given by the Japanese Society of Southern California at 6 o'clock at First and San Pedro streets, after which they attended a gathering of their countrymen at the Lyceum Hall, on South Spring street, near Second, where a series of addresses were delivered by members of the party.

At the dinner given at First and San Pedro streets, Y. Hirai presided, and N. Tayama was chairman of the meeting at Lyceum Hall. This morning the commission will visit the various public markets, leaving for Washington, D. C., via New Orleans, tomorrow.

Members of the party were entertained yesterday at Universal City with special Wild West and comedy performances.

SEEK PARDON FOR CONVICTED MAN.

A petition to President Wilson for the pardon of Marion M. Clark, who was convicted of using the mails in a scheme to defraud, was put in circulation yesterday, and, it is claimed, is being numerously signed. Clark was sentenced to six months in the County Jail, and to pay a fine of $250, by United States District Judge Trippet. Following his conviction, Clark appealed his case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeal, but the appeal was denied, September 4. The mandate ordering him to begin his confinement has not been received.

To Regulate Explosives.

The City Attorney was instructed yesterday by the Council to prepare an ordinance regulating the transportation of explosives through the streets. The action was taken upon the recommendation of the Public Safety Committee.

COUNCIL THINKS JAIL'S DOOMED.

Members Smile when Reference is Made to Proposed Anti-saloon Law.

While members of the Council yesterday were considering a communication from C. H. V. Lewis in relation to the proposed erection of a new City Jail, Councilman Conaway said he thought the Council should not be too hasty in taking any action on the subject.

"After a certain election to be held soon there will be no need for a jail," said the Councilman. Other members assumed he was referring to the coming anti-saloon election. They said nothing, but they smiled.

laid the rails across the trenches under fire for the big guns to be run upon. He has just learned of the death of his son, Flight Lieutenant Charles Olive Rayner, in Flanders—a young man whose services were employed in the first aerial defense against the Zeppelins over London, when 1900 men, women and children were killed. This boy won his commission at Oxford and only in a recent letter declared, "Father, it is a mighty good thing to be an English officer."

His son Rupert is a sergeant and his third son, Edgar, is a corporal of the drums.

Sergt. Rayner, broken in health for military service, will devote his time to making recruiting speeches to Britishers in this part of the country. He is an able speaker and tells what he has seen with his own eyes. He says that in the battle of the Somme the British guns were wheel to wheel for thirty-eight miles—that we have no conception of the magnitude of the great war that is raging. He says he has seen little Belgian children with their hands cut off, French and Belgian women with their breasts cut off by our kultured foe.

And he tells of the wonderful work of the women in the battle zone. He estimates that there are nearly 10,000 khaki girls over there at this time, building the dumps, driving the motor lorries, doing all the noncombatant work of the men—and doing it with amazing efficiency and good humor.

Yesterday he made two five-minute talks, at Clune's Auditorium in the afternoon and at Miller's in the evening. He is also to be heard at several of the women's clubs.

Buy a Liberty Bond

By tens of thousands, from office, and shop, and field, and factory, young Americans are gathering for the training that will win the war. They go quietly, cheerfully, willingly, offering their young lives on the side of humanity against barbarism, freedom against oppression, decency against dishonor, the rights of peoples against the despotic sway of war-mad autocrats.

BUT WE WHO STAY AT HOME! Are we doing anything? If not, there is a way. If we cannot devote our lives, we can devote our Dollars. We can subscribe to the Second Liberty Loan and do a part, infinitely less, indeed, than that of the soldiers and sailors, but no less necessary.

At home we are expected to deprive ourselves, that others may fight. We must not do less. In the trenches there is deprivation to the uttermost, and the giving of life. In subscribing freely, though it entail rigid economy, and even deprivation, we are not GIVING anything! We are loaning our money, at interest, upon the best security under the heavens; the security of the fields, and farms, and towns, and cities, the workshops and factories, and homes, of America.

And it is not even necessary to advance the whole amount of a bond; the undersigned Company will sell a $50.00 Bond and require an initial payment of only $2.00, and $2.00 per week thereafter. The purchaser will receive interest from Nov. 15, 1917, the date of the bonds, on all payments made. Bonds of larger denominations at the same ratio.

To Care for Birds.

Miss Carolina Winston, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Winston, will have charge of the bird booth at the French and Belgian market to be held Saturday at Central Park. The flower and bird booth will be an attractive feature of the fair, especially interesting will be the collection of feathered songsters, embracing every variety of the inhabitants of birddom. Canaries, love birds, and parrots, will be there in abundance, the latter guaranteed to neither scold, swear or Hoch the Kaiser. Another interesting spot in the park will be the English tea booth in charge of Mrs. Margaret Ham, who will have a number of interesting people assisting her.

Returns from North.

Mrs. Emmeline Childs, who has been sojourning in San Francisco for the past three weeks, has returned to her home, after a few days spent at Santa Barbara at the Potter. She was joined there by her daughter, Mrs. F. H. Hicks, and while there, celebrated her seventy-eighth birthday with an elaborate dinner. Miss Emmeline Childs is still in the northern city and will remain there for the autumn months.

A quiet wedding was that of Miss Alice Wood of this city, and Capt. William D. Brotherton, U.S.N., taking place Monday afternoon. Capt. IN STORES AND HOMES.

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

By Olive Gray.

Up-to-Datest.

Those blouses which look so very Egyptian and are for wear with separate skirts of somber tints for semi-full dress.

The saucy train which does not seem to belong to the skirt to which it is allied.

The skeletonized feathers formed into leaf-like shapes for hat trimming.

The handbag of bright black leather with brilliant silk fruits and handles of equal brilliance.

Now is the time to buy:

Granite ware at prices which make the good housekeeper forget that there is war.

Halloween things for that gay, ghostly fiesta. The counters are replete with novelties for the coming fall celebration.

The materials for lamp shades, and the free lessons in making thereof.

The materials for the separate skirt and the making for a price, oh —so little.

Blouse Blazonry.

"Oh-oo-oo! See those gorgeous blouses!" I heard a woman exclaim as she passed the Parisian window on Seventh street, wherein were displayed the very latest in blousery.

"H'mm, yes, yes—Chinese." And her companion dragged her hurriedly along by the arm. "Husband" was writ large in the tone which implied: "Do not for heaven's sake stop to look, or you might want to buy!" and also in the arm-drag of him.

And the joke of it was that the blouses were not Chinese at all, but Egyptian, as proclaimed upon a card and also by the bronze sphynxes guarding the blouses.

And the woman was right, they were gorgeous and absolutely new —whether from Egypt, or Paris, or even from New York. The coloring was wonderful and the make was elaborately simple—the sort of simplicity which common dressmakers try vainly to simulate.

From Paris.

A letter recently received from a friend in Paris has this to say anent the much-mooted question of the length of skirts: "Skirts, shown in the latest openings, are shorter and even more scant than heretofore. Impossible though that may seem."

Beads and Beads.

If you can find no other place to place your beads, run them along the lower edge of your Russian blouse, and allow them to dangle upon coarse embroidery silk along the edges of sleeves from the elbow to wrist. If any are left over, you may string them upon the edge of the collar. Odd fad, is it not?

* * *

Handling.

The bag craze has brought about many and various ways of handling. There are the Chinese rings of jade in every size, and more novel the ovals of similar materials, in jade or turquoise colors or to match nearly any color prevalent in the bag. Then there are the odd-shaped wire handles for winding over with silk or ribbon, or to cover with the same material as the bag. Of course, the handles of heavy silken cords are also used and handles formed from the round or oval embroidery hoops, covered with shirred material. With so great a range, one might almost say: "Anything that's handy, for handling bags."

Thus Ribbons Blossom.

Some of the newest ribbons are of tinsel in gold or silver and have dainty flowers embroidered along their shimmering lengths. These are used for hair bands and fillets, for trimming gowns, and for banding hats, or as an edging for elaborate scarfs to use with evening dresses.

* * *

Kimonish.

Many of the newest sleeves, especially upon those gloriously colorful blouses which are to be worn to dinners and for semi-formal dress, are in a modified kimono shape. So graceful is this sleeve, and so classical its lines, that just as one begins to relegate it to the past, up it bobs again—always a favorite.

Gems for Knittery.

"Knitting needles from 25 cents to $5," is a sign shown in one window. And as a matter of fact, $5 is by no means the limit of knitting needle cost; for the ends may be tipped with anything from celluloid to semi-precious or sure-enough gems. Of course, the proper thing in knitting needlery is to tip the ends with your birthstone. This is sure to insure good luck in knitting—is it not? No stitches dropped or other knitty calamities.

Knitomobility.

If this word is new to you and challenged, I shall set about proving its authenticity. It is derived from the ability shown by many girls, both young and old, to knit while sitting or even riding, in their automobiles. It may be that soon there will be a civil service exam. as to how many things you can do while knitting. Your rank as a femi-patriot may depend upon the test. Oh, don't be so serious. Might as well smile, as draw hard lines around your mouth and chin. It makes the other fellow feel lots better and will not harm you.

When They are Dyed.

I wonder if, when they are dead, the little squirrels and other small beasties know how they are dyed? There are those which are dyed taupe, to match the velours de—whatsoever —of the garments which they adorn; and those dyed Havana brown to go with the duvetyn of this —or—that of the material which they trim. And I have no idea that the originals ever even tasted Havana brown. Truly fashion is a soulless jade.

The latest collar for the dainty blouse is the bib collar. There we go, robbing the layette of its exclusiveness, just for a new sensation in grown-up clothes.

An A-1 Recipe.

Wonder croquettes won a prize in that perpetual contest for best recipes. Two cups of cooked and mashed lentils, to which add 1 cup ground walnuts, one cup health bran, one egg, one-fourth cup milk—preferably condensed—one small onion ground fine, one teaspoon butter or other fat, one teaspoon salt, little paprika. Mix all together except egg. Thoroughly heat but do not boil. Remove from stove, add well-beaten egg, allow to cool and spread on platter. Form into croquettes, dip in white of egg and bread crumbs and fry in deep fat. This will serve five or six persons. Tomato sauce may be served with the croquettes.

Fashion's Formulas.

The fashionable panel down the center of a dress is best for a very slender figure.

Many new fashion ideas come from Japan. One of them is for gorgeous tapestry silks.

Sky-blue velvet and tulle over silver cloth make a charming combination for an evening frock.

A blue and white embroidered jumper blouse is charming worn with a black velvet coat and skirt.

Shawl collars are favorites made of fur.

Long side draperies appear on some coats.

Now and then a rose appears on a winter hat.

High collars will be worn with tailored suits.

Tete de negre satin is trimmed with sealskin.

Many frocks have very tight-fitting sleeves.

The collars of winter frocks are edged with fur.

Touches of yellow make a blue frock attractive.

JAP DIVORCES AMERICAN WIFE.

She Doesn't Contest Action, Though Denying There is Another Man.

Benjamin R. Ban, a Japanese traveling salesman, who met and married a white woman, was granted a decree of divorce by Judge Wood yesterday. The mating of the races did not conduce to happiness, it appears. The wife, Edith Callahan Ban, who is said to be in San Diego, did not contest the action. She had previously denied her husband's charges of over-friendliness for a white man, and asked for the decree.

PATHE TO START.

BIG CORPORATION WILL BEGIN PICTURE WORK.

By Grace Kingsley.

That Pathe is shortly to begin work on numerous picture productions was the promise of J. A. Berst, vice-president of the organization, who recently issued a statement to that effect.

According to the statement of Mr. C. R. Seeley, western representation for Pathe, made last night, as many as sixteen companies will soon be at work, a part of them in Los Angeles and the remainder in the East. The New Jersey manufacturing plant has been at work during the past two years, making film and other necessary material used in the production of pictures, so that this phase is provided for.

Pathe already has secured several big stars, including Fanny Ward, Bryant Washburn, Bessie Love, Frank Keenan and Mrs. Vernon Castle. Pathe also claims to hold a contract with Sessue Hayakawa, while Lasky claims a prior right to his services, saying they have a contract which still has a year to run.

A studio site has not yet been obtained, but, according to the statement of Mr. Seeley, the studio when built will be in Hollywood, where he has three different sites under consideration.

Plans of the company include the making of two pictures a week for programme, with a monthly special feature, in addition to which three reels will be made, one of comedy, one of travelogue and one of news.

Bryant Washburn is to start work on his first picture October 21. Washburn's plans have recently suffered uncertainty due to his having been drafted for service in the army, his wife, who was formerly an actress, claiming she could support herself, but later developments bringing to light the fact that she is not strong enough physically for stage work.

Miss Bara Flits.

After today the Fox studio at Hollywood will know Theda Bara no more, for this year at least. Having completed the film version of "Du Barry," Miss Bara will leave today for New York, where she will next Sunday evening witness the premiere of her masterpiece, "Cleopatra," which promises to be the photoplay sensation of the season.

Miss Bara expresses great regret at leaving California.

Asked whether she desired to appear in any different type of picture from those in which she has made her reputation, Miss Bara replied she had a secret longing to play nigh comedy, and should more than like a try at playing "The School for Scandal" and "She Stoops to Conquer."

Clune's Broadway.

Any old time Douglas Fairbanks can't hold up and kill off, sometimes one at a pop, sometimes two at a pop, as many as a dozen ruffians, smiling as he does it, he feels his day has been wasted. He does that very thing again this week at Clune's Broadway in "The Man from Painted Post." Nay, more than that, he holds up one rascally politroon in the dusk with nothing more dangerous that the handle of a stewpan!

Very subtle satire on the old melodrama stuff, this picture play. So it gets the audience going and coming. If you like to gasp you get more gasps to the square inch in this picture than in most "mellers." While if you prefer to be in on the joke with "Doug," why, you can laugh your head off at his bowling over a dozen men with one hand while he grabs the girl with the other.

As usual, Anita Loos's subtitles get a lot of laughs and Fairbanks hasn't turned out a crisper comedy in months.

Tally's Broadway.

In casting Louis Joseph Vance's melodrama, "The Lone Wolf," for the screen it was evident that all the numerous principal roles demanded seasoned players, and Director Brenon decided that he would star no member of the company, but would spare no expense in obtaining the best talent available for all the parts. Bert Lytell, who comes from the Pacific Coast, was given the title role, although he had never before appeared in pictures. Hazel Dawn, one of the handsomest of the young picture stars, was selected to play the leading feminine role.

So successful was the picture at its initial showing here that Mr. Tally is giving it a special return week's engagement at his Broadway Theater this week.

It Pays to Advertise.

"It Pays to Advertise," the Cohan and Harris success, is in rehearsal at the Morosco, to follow "The House of Glass." Betty Brice, Richard Dix and Harland Tucker have the leading roles.

The Retort Courteous.

It was fitting that those two international celebrities, former Ambassador James Gerard, and Mary Pickford, should meet. They did so, out at Lasky studio, on Monday, James Neill conducting the introductory ceremony with all the elegance to be expected from a southern gentleman.

"Oh," exclaimed little Mary enthusiastically, "the great American! I have often seen your pictures in the papers and magazines!"

And not to be outdone in complimentary remarks, and just to show he could still say pretty things even if he does take a daily wallop at the Germans, Mr. Gerard gallantly retorted: "Ah, but not nearly so many people have seen my pictures as have seen 'The Little American!'"

Wanted—A Dog Actor.

Among the plays which are scheduled for showing at the Morosco in the near future is "Young America," which will receive its first stock production here. As a matter of fact, it was scheduled to follow "The House of Glass," the only difficulty being to find an actor for one of the star roles.

This role is none other than a dog role—a real dog, not one of the Fred Woodward variety. The alley back of the theater the other morning resembled a dog pound ,only these dogs were artistic creatures, whose temperaments prompted them to all sorts of dogly remarks. Director Fred Butler interviewed a dozen of these and their owners, and then, falling down exhausted, wired Mr. Morosco please to let him have a dogless play. So "Young America" is shelved until such time as a canine shall be obtained who (or which) shows he is equal to the part.

A Triumph.

MATZENAUER SCORES.

HUNGARIAN CONTRALTO OPENS PHILHARMONIC COURSES.

By Jeanne Redman.

The Philharmonic Course for the season opened last night at Trinity Auditorium with a recital by Margaret Matzenauer, Hungarian contralto of the Metropolitan Opera-house. There was the usual brilliant attendance which these courses attract; but the house and the audience were phantoms after the first liquid notes of the great singer lifted us out of reality into the world of dreams and infinite lovliness.

The voice is a contralto, but of such tremendous range that it comprises a dramatic soprano, and of such variability that the singer seems to adapt not only her quality, but actually her method to the requirements of the song. During the first group, which consisted of two old Italian songs, Matzenauer used the Italian method entirely, and during the group of modern French, she was French. It was a Catholic programme, beginning with the Lungi del caro bene, by Secchi, and Scarlatti's "Se Florindo," which were done, no doubt more for the singer to warm up the voice, than for the audience, but the reward was great, for in the Handel numbers which followed, the smooth solemn tones required by the Oratorio, where sublime in their completeness.

The French group was exquisite and displayed the flower-like lyric possibilities of Matzenauer to the fullest. Nothing could be more satisfying than her rendition of Debussy, of whom she gave two numbers, "Beau Soir" and "La Chevelure." Exquisite art, too, was the Dentelliere of Fourdrain, with its lace-like accompaniment. The audience demanded an encore after each group, and following the French songs, the artist sang Gertrude Ross's "Dawn," with fervor and decision. There was a group of La Forge songs which were sicklier o'er with the pale cast of sentimentality, the encore, "The Messenger," being the most agreeable of the lot. Whether the prima donna gave us these songs as a special favor, I do not know, but it was an immense relief when they were followed, at a proper interval, by Richard Wagner, whom, as everybody knows, Matzenauer sings superbly. His "traume" was the height of dreamy ecstacy, its long-sustained tones, full of tenderness and beauty, and the accompaniment, to it went perhaps more adequately than any of the rest. Wagner "Schmerzen" gave us a hint of the dramatic possibilities of Matzenauer's voice and also her personality. She is a type for Wagnernian heroines—tall, marvelously proportioned, with classic features and superb dark eyes. In a white lace gown, with roses, of the softest shade of La France at her waist, she was all that one feels a prima donna should be, and should look, and her final number was by all odds the best "Liebestod" that the Coast has heard. As a great genius, Wagner towered above his contemporaries, Wagner never wrote anything finer than "Tristan." The love music is surely the last word to be said upon the subject, and all the tenderness and passion of Isolde in her enchanted love for Tristan, and her sorrow, was in that song last night. It is needless to say that Matzenauer never overdoes emotion; she is always artistic, but her training is something which she seems to have acquired and then thrown to the happy winds, to find her own way unmolested, into our hearts.

Miss Ballard, accompanist, played the Eture, which is MacDowell at his worst, and did it very fairly; although it is difficult to see why such a choice should have been made, for she does dreamy things, requiring concentration and dignity much better, to judge from her accompaniments, and certainly the composition was not chosen for itself. Matzenauer made an immense impression, and she would be heartily welcomed for another recital did her engagements permit.

GENERAL REVIEWS.

Burbank.

Harry Carey is picking his leading ladies younger every time. And as the picture never waits for them to grow up, Harry loses out on romance.

Although Harry Carey is Main street's matinee hero, he leaves the woolly out of William S. Hart's west, and forgets the teeth in "Doug" Fairbanks's smile. Take what's left and mix in a look of thoughtfulness and you have the man whose lithographs line the east side of bally-hoo boulevard.

"The Silent Man" has not the kind of plot you put down in thirty-five words, but it runs incidents together much as they should go. It does not hate the villain for one scene and then love the hero for one scene, and then show them chasing each other, but it pictures a lovable side of a wholesome cowboy nature.

Kane and Wagner are dippy on something—it probably was harmony when they started with it—and when they finish the audience is dippy about them. For singing of various kinds, gender, shapes, and tunes, we have the Majestic Three, whose melody is melodious; Hoey and Bellow, who get as much comedy as harmony, and please with both; and Billie Hoffman, a nifty girl songster. 'Ef yo' all am after religion, the Rev. Baltimo' Criddle, who might be a colored Billy Sunday, is all there but the sawdust.

Hippodrome.

If it's in line with Hoover's conservation propaganda "To Save One Girl," I hope they'll save Margaret Ryan for me!

She would make a delicious morsel, would that inconsequential bobbing cherry in a cocktail of joy. Like a toned-down reflection of Elsie Janis, or a Nell-Brinkliied Eva Tanguay, she waves her curls in emulation of George Cohan's flag and spoofs airy persiflage about nothing in particular, while she steps ragey steps meaning nothing at all.

Take another breath. "To Save One Girl" was the subject in hand before Merry Margie diverted our attention. This snappy little Paul Armstrong playlet of political intrigue will wake you up all over. The speedy romance of a young legislator and a hotel stenographer, the culmination of which foils the desperate plans of the ward boss to defeat a liquor-served-in-hotel-rooms bill is as neat a sketch as the Hip has shown us in some time.

Azalia and Delores are two lively girls who will recall "What Next?" in more ways than one. Maestro is an agile juggler. "Swede" Jack Clifton and Lucille Kramer get more laughs than they deserve, but not as many as they ought to with the girl's personality. Revolving acrobats and singing emigrants complete the variety.

Pantages.

With his big, blond personality and Julian Eltinge voice, boyish Frank Morrell gets away with a line of hocum that a light of lesser levity or a more callow kidder would fall down on.

After planting a good-natured trap for people who leave while an act is in progress, Frank sings several contralto solos in succession, proving his wise forethought. "Joan of Arc, Jo-an of Arc," and "Break the News to Mother" both made tremendous hits, though, kidding aside, Frank's probably unintended first-aid-to-belated-reviewers service is much appreciated, and he will doubtless recognize evidence of sincere flattery herewith.

Mr. Owen McGiveney presents "Bill Sikes"—to say nothing of Nancy, Oliver Twist, Fagin and the Artful Dodger—all impersonated in his lightning change act.

It is very funny to watch a person become intoxicated under the impression he (or—funnier yet—she) is drinking water. Early and Laight base a popular "sidewalk act" on this hypothesis.

Reeder and Armstrong shred melody on a patient piano; Claire and Atwood accept bumps and buffets as a regular three-a-day part of life; six Venetian gypsies lured from profitable "nica-da-fruit" stands by the false glamour of camping on the Grand Canal, jingle the Italian song favorites. Another "terrific" installment of "The Fighting Trail" completes the bill.

Tally's Broadway.

At the present time, melodrama seems to be, and for that matter always has been, the most popular form of entertainment. It must be high-class melodrama, however. While the lurid, sensational and blood-curdling melodrama will sometimes meet with success, built upon sands, it cannot last. The wave of public opinion will wash it away.

The success of Herbert Brenon's recent production of Louis Joseph Vance's melodrama, "The Lone Wolf," is ample proof that the people welcome high-class melodrama as a form of entertainment. Further proof of the popularity of a well-produced and finely-acted melodrama is offered in the fact that when "The Lone Wolf" was shown at Tally's Broadway a few weeks ago, during one of the hottest spells of summer weather, and when most people were enjoying vacations, an unusually big week's business was recorded. Many of those who saw the production before are returning again this week, and those who did not are welcoming this opportunity of seeing Hazel Dawn and Bert Lytell in what is conceded to be one of the best melodramas ever produced, "The Lone Wolf."

ALIEN ENEMY?

Immigration authorities yesterday took from the steamer Yucatan, bound north from Nicaragua, when it landed at San Luis Obispo, Fred Shaffer, an alleged alien enemy. It is alleged that Shaffer had failed to secure a permit to leave the country. He will be brought to Los Angeles for a hearing.

ANAHEIM TRADE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ANAHEIM, Oct. 9.—Dr. W. S. McFarlane has traded the plant of the Anaheim Ice Company to Mrs. Laura B. Resh, part of the consideration being 470 acres in Norlo, Mex.

Senator Lyon Shot.

turned to get into his machine, shot him twice. Mrs. M. D. Palm, landlady at No. 950 Stanford avenue, was in her kitchen when she heard two shots. She rushed to the front of her apartment-house and found Mrs. Lyon, who was hysterically screaming: "She killed my husband." Mr. Lyon was lying in the yard.

Mrs. Palm told detectives last night that Senator Lyon was about to leave for his mother-in-law's, Mrs. Kretchen's ranch in Glendale, when he was shot.

HER RECORD.

According to Police Lieut. Cleveland Heath, Miss Pinzon is a well-known character of the city. She told the police last night that she had known Mr. Lyon for twenty years. Records produced by Lieut. Heath show that the woman was arrested November 6, 1916, on a charge of soliciting, and was also arrested on a similar charge January 13, 1917.

Miss Pinzon was a witness, according to Chief Butler, before the Police Commission in the famous E. W. Cherry trial. November of last year, Cherry, a patrolman, was discharged from the police force as the result of charges made by Miss Pinzon and a Josephine Miller.

According to police records, Miss Pinzon attempted suicide three times, twice by poison and once by gas. At the time of Mr. Lyon's marriage to Miss Marie Kretchen, at San Diego, September, 1916, Miss Pinzon tried to end her life in a downtown cafe by swallowing poison. She was revived at the Receiving Hospital.

Miss Pinzon has been living at No. 152 South Fremont avenue for the last four months. She is unknown to Mrs. Lyon. She will be arraigned in the justice court tomorrow, probably on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

HIS RECORD.

Senator Lyon started his political career in 1910, when he was elected to the City Council. He served there for one term and was elected State Assemblyman. He served in that capacity for one term, and, backed by the Johnson-Progressive element, was elected to the State Senate from the Twenty-ninth District. With the same support he was re-elected last year.

During the time that he held the position of Assemblyman he was appointed District Deputy Labor Commissioner by State Labor Commissioner McLaughlin. In January, 1915, he was appointed Labor Commissioner for this district, which position he held until November, 1916, when the Legislature ratified Amendment No. 6, which provided that no member of the Legislature could accept another State position, and he was forced to resign.

At the time of Mayor Sebastian's collapse, Mr. Lyon cast sheep's eyes at the Mayor's job, but failed to secure the appointment. Later he announced his candidacy for election as Councilman, and his nominating petitions were largely supported at the Labor Temple and among Progressives.

ON CONSPIRACY CHARGE.

Deputy United States Marshal Carse of San Diego, brought Theodore Kappan, who has been a guard at the Hercules Powder Company plant in that city, to Los Angeles, yesterday. Kappan is wanted in San Francisco on an indictment charging him with being mixed up in a Chinese conspiracy plot. An order will be made sending Kappan north for his appearance in the prosecution of that case.

STRUCK BY TRUCK.

Daniel Miller, who was struck by an auto truck at Seventh and Los Angeles streets Saturday and had a hip bone broken, is recovering nicely at his home, No. 1003 Kenwood avenue.

BETTER THAN EVER.

The California Associated Raisin Company has announced that all warehouses have been cleaned of the 1916 crop and that only new crop is available for eastern shipment. California growers are harvesting the biggest raisin yield in the history of the State, about 150,000 tons, representing more than $15,000,000. The harvesting and packing of this wonderful crop requires the employment of 3000 laborers, who are receiving an increase of 7½ cents per hour over the wages paid last year. "By their fruits ye shall know them," and if California contributed to the world no other fruit than raisins the State would still be famous.

LET THEM KNIT.

The suggestion has been made that the prisoners at the Folsom State Penitentiary be allowed to spend part of their time knitting socks and sweaters for the soldiers. The Red Cross organization offers to furnish the knitting machines for the prisoners. It is a good suggestion and it is to be hoped that the State Board of Prison Directors will favor it. It would be relaxation for the inmates of the prison, would tend to rouse and develop their patriotism, and the articles of clothing they could manufacture would be gladly welcomed by the nation's defenders. Let 'em knit!

HIGH-PRICED TROUT.

An automobile dealer and a vocalist went on a fishing excursion up north and caught twelve trout averaging in weight one pound each. They had the bad judgment to boast of their catch and exhibit it to admiring friends. Then the fish commissioner caused their arrest for a violation of the game and fish laws and they were fined $50. Four dollars apiece is a pretty steep price to pay for trout. Besides they had to climb over a close-woven wire fence to get into the grounds where the trout lake is, and their br—ches suffered in consequence. Hereafter they will eschew trout instead of chewing them.

NO ADVICE.

It is more blessed to give than to receive—kicks, medicine and advice. Advice is desirable provided it agrees with your own convictions, but if it disagrees with them it is best not to follow it. Shakespeare says: "Take each man's counsel, but preserve thy judgment." There isn't much in advice. It rarely fits the case. Besides, asking for or accepting advice is like being a borrower of instead of a creator of capital. Try to be intellectually solvent in all that it implies. No man's shoes will ever quite fit into another man's footsteps. Give the mind healthy exercise. Touch life at many points. Look with friendly eyes upon your fellow-men, purge yourself rather than physic others, and if you really need advice as to how to raise chickens, or hosts, or anything else, consult the columns of The Times.

DRAKE'S DRUM.

Supernatural visitations, supernatural aid to men in distress, supernatural warnings and omens have been the subjects of recent song and story among the English fighting men. They have been hearing "Drake's Drum" along the southern coast of England, particularly in Devonshire. This means trouble. It was heard in August, 1914, just before England entered the war. It was heard before the battle of Jutland. It has been heard again, so they say. According to the legend, when that fine old sea lord, Sir Francis Drake, lay dying in the harbor of Porto Bello, Panama, in 1596, he ordered his drum to be taken back to Devonshire, declaring that when it sounded an alarm he would come in person to disperse the threatening foe. It is a fine old legend, and very dear to the heart of Devonshire. Great is the influence of tradition, particularly in the British Isles.

PERU.

The entrance of Peru into the war against Germany is not a matter of such little importance as might be supposed. Peru has a population of 4,620,000 people, about 50 per cent. greater than that of California, and an area of 480,000 square miles—three times that of California. But then the public debt of Peru is but $44,112,000, while that of California is $136,538,364. Peru in 1915 imported but $15,044,000 worth of foreign goods, while her exports of guano, nitrate of soda, silver, copper, sugar, cotton, rice, quinine and wool amounted to $68,633,128.

Peru's war strength of 901,560 men is nearly equal to that of her Atlantic neighbor, Argentina, which has 1,073,576. Denmark has an available war strength of but 469,681 men; Sweden but 527,716; Norway but 368,536, and The Netherlands but 851,835. Peru and Argentina are now both arrayed as enemies of Germany. Together they could muster an army of nearly two million men, 50 per cent. more than all three of the Scandinavian countries combined.

With Peru on the Pacific and Argentina on the Atlantic as enemies Germany will be compelled to abandon her project of colonizing South America with her surplus population—and then she won't have any surplus population.

DISCOURAGING INDUSTRY.

What is it that Los Angeles needs most? Let us see, let us see. Is it a Permanent Committee to Discourage Industry? Is that it?

Every time a New Industry knocks at the door of the City Council for a permit or privilege or resting-place, a committee of knockers appears with clubs and empty bottles and vigorously endeavors to drive it away—on the ground that it injures a building lot next door on which a million dollar house might be built, or it makes a racket, or it DISTURBS THE SLUMBER OF THE NEIGHBORS. The question is, shall we make this committee a permanent organization?

It is becoming more and more evident as time goes on and Los Angeles keeps right on growing that something must be done if we would keep the community from losing entirely the good old home town atmosphere that has distinguished it from other large centers of population in America. Anyone who is at all observing can see and must admit that Los Angeles has already lost, and hopelessly lost, much of the verdant charm of its OVERGROWN VILLAGE DAYS. We might as well acknowledge the fact and be done with it.

Undesirable influences, such as have led to the complete citifying of many another growing, spreading home community, happy in the bucolic simplicity of its ways, have been at work here these many years. In spite of the wish of a large and estimable part of our population to duplicate and perpetuate here the placid and restful environment and ways of life of a thousand rural communities of the Middle West, the spirit of metropolitanism has been rampant. As we have forged ahead by the hundreds of thousands in population, we have taken on more and more of the aspect of other cities of our size and importance until we have become a city in manners and appearances as well as in size. It must be plain to anyone who thinks that unless there is a greater unity of purpose and action upon the part of those who would preserve something of our former rustic simplicity, the greatest experiment in collective village life ever undertaken in history will soon be only a memory.

One thing that is contributing to the upsetting of our fine old village ideals is the growth of industry in and around Los Angeles. There was a time when the noisy industries were happily few and far between, but it is perfectly apparent that unless something is done pretty soon, Los Angeles is going to become a smoky and smelly hive of activities. The complaint is frequently heard in some parts of the city that the factory whistles make as much noise as the roosters. A new manufacturing plant of one kind or another is started almost every day somewhere in Los Angeles, and that invariably means another ugly building and more black smokestacks. It means, furthermore, that a piece of vacant ground that might some day have been used for residential purposes has been spoiled for homes.

Then there are the people who work in the factories. Many of them smoke cigarettes. Some even drink beer, as many clubwomen and some clergymen do. Whole crowds of them may be seen entering or leaving almost any plant laughing boisterously and slapping one another on the backs. Around the machine shops and foundries they are often grimy and unkempt. Hollywood is having an agony with the motion-picture plants. They make so much noise firing off guns every time they have a sham battle. Their people chase around at such unearthly hours of the night. The industries generally employ so many whose habits and ideas and ways of living are so different from those of their critics!

One often hears the assertion that industries are necessary to sustain a community. Pay rolls and jobs, it is argued, are more important than anything else in the upbuilding of a city. Those who are everlastingly urging that the city be thrown wide open to factories even point out that the great manufacturing centers of the East were almost unaffected by the dull times that came upon the country a few years ago, whereas cities, like Los Angeles, that had not made such progress industrially, felt the slump keenly. It is undoubtedly this kind of talk, as much as the many industrial advantages admittedly boasted by Los Angeles, that has started such a great manufacturing activity here in the past few months. It is this kind of thing, too, THAT IS GOING TO "SPOIL" Los Angeles as a rustic, leisurely residence community, just as other places have been "spoiled."

Filling a city with smoke and smell and noise and unsightly buildings to make jobs for a lot of plain, rushing people who wouldn't have come here, many of them, otherwise, would appear to be straining a point in the interest of mere material prosperity. Isn't that reprehensible? The money invested in factories had better be put into bungalows and geraniums and porch swings and lollypops.

A large proportion of the people of Los Angeles have come here on account of the climate. Tens of thousands of them have come in middle life from the small towns of the Central States to make their homes in this land of sunshine and out-of-doors. THEY HAVE ALWAYS LIVED IN AN ATMOSPHERE OF RURAL CALM, HAVE ALWAYS DWELT AMONG OTHERS OF THEIR KIND AND HAVE ALWAYS FIGURED PROMINENTLY IN THE AFFAIRS OF THEIR OWN COMMUNITIES. ALL THE MAN FROM ALBIA, IOWA, OR COB CORNERS, IND., HAS ASKED OF LOS ANGELES IS THAT HE BE ALLOWED TO LIVE HERE IN EXACTLY THE WAY IN WHICH HE HAS BEEN ACCUSTOMED AND TO DICTATE HOW EVERYONE ELSE IN THE CITY SHALL LIVE. A modest aspiration, indeed, upon the part of one who has come out to make his home here and be a part of the very backbone of the community. The pity is that the city after all should have swallowed him up the way it has and gone on its reckless way, for we once bade fair to become a sort of magnified and glorified Albia ourselves.

Yes, it would appear that the man who had ruthlessly yanked up his old home ties and come all the way out here to live in a rose-bowered bungalow ought to have some rights. If he doesn't like smoke and noise and unsightly factory buildings and people that smoke cigarettes and drink beer, he shouldn't be compelled to put up with them. Industries that are responsible for any such undesirable conditions should go. No more factories that smoke and smell and make noises and employ people whose hair isn't long and whose manners are not patterned to suit the rest of us should be permitted in the city. Whistles are screechy things. Los Angeles, above everything else, should be kept the abode of people who go to bed at 9 o'clock, sit on their porches after supper and insist that everyone else shall live as they live. All others are undesirables.

There are two ways of going about saving Los Angeles from becoming the busy metropolis that many misguided individuals would have it:

First, there should be organized a permanent Committee for the Discouragement of Industry in Los Angeles.

Second, there must be elected to the City Council men like those in some of the former Councils, who will positively waste no time bothering with the so-called practical business of the city and will devote themselves wholeheartedly to alleged-to-be moral issues and people's private habits, what they eat and drink and wear and how they snore.

Which is the Undesirable Citizen?

AN INHERITANCE A MISFORTUNE.

Speaking in behalf of the State administration, State Controller Chambers voiced a strong protest in an address before the State Association of County Assessors in Redding Monday against the encroachments of the Federal government on sources of revenue which were formerly reserved for the sovereign States. Mr. Chambers made plain that the protest is not against the amount of money which Congress has voted to raise this year through taxation, not for the purpose of hampering the government in the successful prosecution of the war, but to warn against precedents that may lead to disastrous consequences after the war is over.

California's inheritance rates are now the highest in the United States; they are equalized in part, however, by high exemptions. But the new Federal inheritance taxes, together with duplicate inheritance assessments by two or more States, mount to a total that threatens to make an inheritance a liability instead of an asset. Mr. Chambers is of the opinion that the Federal government should not tax inheritances in the different States, but should secure its revenue in some other way. In his address he asserted that:

"The irresponsible course of the Federal government, to obtain revenue from any source in sight regardless of the rights and welfare of the States, not only is wrong in principle and hazardous in application, but unnecessary and particularly aggravating because it can secure the revenue it seeks from some sources well within its jurisdiction."

Federal taxes on corporations and incomes are viewed by the State Controller in a similar light. His objection is that, if these taxes are permitted to stand now without any protests, they will be continued by Congress after the war is over, to the great detriment of the States.

In the opinion of the State Controller the plan followed by Congress at the close of the revolution, during the war of 1812 and again in the Civil War is greatly to be preferred to the present course. In each of these periods Congress levied a tax on land and buildings in all the Federal States. This tax was abolished after the necessity for it disappeared.

Other States are making a similar protest. Mr. Chambers quoted at length from a report of the New York State Tax Commission on State and Federal taxation. It is the opinion of the New York State Commission that New York should protest officially to Congress "Against a continuance of the present course of increasing direct taxes without proper consideration of its effects upon the interests of the separate States. If this policy is to be persisted in it will at once become a matter of urgent necessity to give careful attention to possible plans of accommodation between Federal and State taxes on incomes, on inheritances and on corporations."

As The Times has pointed out frequently in the past, California will be harder hit than almost any other State by the Federal war taxes, for the reason that the cost of State government in California is now the highest in the United States. In many States, possibly in a majority of them, the Federal war taxes and State taxes combined will be no higher than the present per capita cost of State government in California. In addition to doing his part in the war, the California taxpayer must support the most expensive State political machine in the history of the American republic. Surely the time is approaching when most of our costly and worse than useless State commissions can be discarded as excess baggage.

NOTHING IS LOST.

Twenty billions of dollars for the cost of the war and for loans to the Allied powers. Well, what of it? The money is not destroyed. It changes hands—that is all. John Brown, the owner of a building, pays $100 income tax to the government. The government pays it to its soldiers. The soldiers give it to their wives, the wives pay it to the merchant, and the merchant pays it to John Brown for rent. The money is back where it started from, and it does not appear that anybody has lost anything.

Or the government loans that $100 to England, and England with it buys munitions made or grain grown in the United States. The money may change hands a hundred times and still nobody has lost anything.

But if, for lack of money to pay soldiers or purchase war supplies or loan to England and France, the Kaiser should triumph in the war and should invade our country and ravage portions of it as he did Belgium and Northern France, and blow up buildings and tear up railroad tracks and destroy vast bands of horses and cattle with microbes of anthrax and glanders—then somebody would have lost something.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

GOING OUT.

In this fair world in which we dwell
no man's so greatly needed that when they toll his passing bell
his going is much heeded. Today we see a shining guy of whom the world is talking, and we remark,
"If he should die 'twould set the planet rocking. Oh, it would jolt this country hard to lose this human pattern; the solar system would be jarred from Jupiter to Saturn." And then this man of mighty brains is taken with the colic, and fifty-seven kinds of pains around his innards frolic. The doctors round his couch have swarmed as thick as they were able, and in the end we are informed that he has slipped his cable. The great man's dead! And still the sun its daily bonfire raises, and still the stars, when day is done, come forth and shine like blazes. The government wags on the same, dissatisfaction giving, and men pursue the same old game they played when he was living. The fame he worked so long to build has vanished, as enchanted; the great man's place is promptly filled, the great man's dead and planted.

WALT MASON.

THE CAFE COAT GIRL.

[By Leah Evans in the Minneapolis Tribune.]

"Fraulein," began August, the head waiter, in an apologetic tone.

"Gus," replied the Coat Girl before he could continue, "I know just what you are going to say from that expression on your face. It means this pains me more than it does you and I have seen it on my mother's map many a time when she was just about to use her slipper for somethin' the shoemaker never intended it for.

"I not only know what you was goin' to bark at me about, Gus, but I know why. Shoot, I should worry. "Life would be as stale as last week's biscuit if we never done nothin' foolish.

"Bein' dangerously foolish, Gus, is life's one best bet. It's just like juggin' knives, like riding aeroplanes, like running a car fifty miles an hour, like gettin' married, like tryin' to see how far out into the surf you can swim—it's a fine stunt if you can get away with it.

"But, Gus, if you will think back over your long and sinful life, you will recall that the most fun and the most trouble you ever had in your life was from just bein' foolish.

"But this thing of just bein' a model girl all the time, every day and all the year around, is as tiresome as nursin' a war baby through its second summer.

In the last hours of the Congress President Wilson signed the bill giving life insurance and disability allowance to American soldiers and sailors. The pay will be good, and it is not possible for the khaki boys to default in the payment of their premium and thus lose what they have paid in as long as they are in the service of Uncle Sam.

OUR WAR SONGS AND CATCHWORDS.

A sympathetic English observer represents us as "struggling almost feverishly to produce phrases about the war." He gages us as feeling quite "out of the running" while we have no catchwords, and this is seen to hurt our national pride. "There is no country so well aware of its special gifts in speedy and pungent characterization," he says, admitting that our slang has "an epigrammatic touch." The fate we are found to dread is "to be left behind by those countries who, whatever their qualities, are not to be compared" with ours "in swiftness, in condensation and description." In the Daily Chronicle (London) he reviews our efforts up to now with "officialdom as well as the public and the newspapers all working hard." Thus:

"The most prominent recruiting appeal, pasted in huge letters on the hoardings, is as follows:

It's not the man who cheers,
But he who volunteers,
To whom all honor is due,
Get in line; get a gun.

"The newspapers are torturing themselves as to the pet name for the American soldiers. They want something approximating to the British 'Tommy.' Many suggestions have been made. One is that they should be called 'Teddies,' a reminiscent title which keeps in mind the services and ambitions of Col. Roosevelt. Recently this has been supplanted by the name 'Sammies,' derived, of course, from the national figure, 'Uncle Sam.' Neither has made a hit, though some of the papers are persevering with the latter. There was a little shock the other day when it was cabled that 'Sammy' in rural districts of England meant silly, stupid, even something pertaining to the village idiot. Strong-minded journals thrust the suggestion aside, however, and persisted with 'Sammies.' One ingenious correspondent has put forward the joint nickname 'Sammy-Ted,' but scorn has been poured on him.

"Not less strenuous than the search for names and phrases has been that for a popular song which shall equal our 'Tipperary' or 'Keep the Home Fires Burning.' Here, too, there has been no absolute success hitherto. Experiments are still going on in the theaters and music halls. Perhaps the most popular to the present is 'Good-by, Broadway; Hello, France.' Recruiting automobile-vans with a dozen or more soldiers pull up at crowded centers like Times Square or Madison Square, and the lads in khaki roar out the chorus through megaphones to the people who gather round. The words run thus:

Good-by, Broadway; hello, France;
We're ten million strong.
Good-by, sweethearts, wives and mothers;
It won't take us long.
Don't you worry while we're there;
It's for you we're fighting, too,
So good-by, Broadway; hello France,
We're going to square our debt to you.

"It goes with a swing and a dash, and sounds a good deal better than it reads. Another one the recruiters sing is 'Where do we go from here?' The chorus is as follows:

Where do we go from here, boys,
Where do we go from here?
Anywhere from Harlem to a Jersey City pier.
When Pat would spy a pretty girl he'd whisper in her ear,
Oh, joy, oh, boy, where do we go from here?

"The peculiar excellence of this as a war-ditty, it will be observed, is, like that of 'Tipperary,' its complete irrelevance.

"What is entitled the 'official recruiting song' has the following lines:

It's your country, it's my country;
With millions of real fighting men.
It's your duty and my duty
To speak with the sword, not the pen.
If Washington were living today,
With sword in hand he'd stand up and say:
'For your country, and my country,
I'll do it all over again.'

"It may not be very good poetry, but the sentiment is beyond dispute."—[Literary Digest.

ROCKEFELLER'S ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

Here are some of the pointed sentences dropped informally—at golf or automobiling or at the table—by the most remarkable man the world of business has ever produced:

"The most important thing for a young man starting life is to establish a credit—a reputation, character. He must inspire the complete confidence of others.

"The hardest problem all through my business career was to obtain enough capital to do all the business I wanted to do and could do, given the necessary amount of money. You must establish a credit (character) before you can hope to have people lend you money.

"The first large bank loan I received—it was $2000, a big sum in those days—was granted me only because the head of the bank made himself familiar with my mode of life, my habits, my industry, and learned from my former employers that I was a young man who could be trusted.

"Nowadays young men—and others—want to have too much done for them. They want to be presented with bonuses; they want all sorts of concessions.

"To get on, young men should study their business thoroughly, work carefully, accurately and industriously, save their money, and then either become partners by buying a share of the business or go out and form a business of their own."

Willing to Do His "Bit."

"You have shown a good deal of impatience because our government has not been able to get a big force over to France right at the start. If you are so eager about it, why don't you enlist?"

"I'm too old. They wouldn't accept me." "Well, if you had a son, would you want him to go?"

"I haven't any son, so it's idle to speculate on what I'd do if I had one, but I have a son-in-law whom I will be glad to sacrifice for my country's honor."—[Dayton News.

RETRIBUTION.

The night is over;
Slowly from the ocean
The profligate arises and wends his way forth
Into the dawn that mocks him.
Hushed is the music of last night's revel,
And lusterless his eyes,
While on his burning brain
The worm of death is feeding.

The night is over;
From her snowy bed
The virgin rises with a song to the dawn,
Her heart the home of peace.
Glad is the song her red lips sing,
While in her tender eyes
Suddenly comes a light
Too sweet, too sweet to name.

The night is over;
She that was a maid
Now lies all white and still beside her babe
That weeps for want of food.
The profligate, with aged face,
Looks on his sightless child,
And once more walks forth
Into the dawn that mocks him.

As a result of recent victories in Flanders the Germans are preparing to evacuate Lens. It has lost importance as a "point of support."

The young man who wants to marry and does more than talk about it will have a business of his own some day. There is no money gained, either, by watching the clock.

The exigencies of war have caused the disappearance of the once celebrated Parker House roll. But it will come back when the good cannot be wiped off the earth.

The popularity of a stock in the market depends upon the runs the "corner." People are selling their hats for Liberty Bonds, doing a thing that would ordinarily be the sum total of absurdity.

The second sale of Liberty Bonds calls for the subscription of $3,000,000, yet the cost of the Civil War of the Rebellion was but $3,000,000. The cost of the Franco-Prussian war was but $5,000,000.

The talks being given by the superior judges is that the Liberty loan must not fail, and emphasis is being laid upon the psychological effect of a heavy oversubscription will have upon the Germans.

We understand that the increase in pay demanded by the soldiers is based on the war basis, and that there is just as much justification for reason as in some other demands heard of intended to increase the price.

There ought to be a law against people in the street cars reading their news by reading the headlines over the shoulders of their fellow-passengers. But there is no law against it—everybody knows what is doing in France and Flanders and Germany has yet written, read and uncut.

The fact that the Kaiser is trying to secure the passage of a bill giving families of soldiers killed in action $10,000 if the head thereof is killed and $5000 if wounded so that he may keep on his usual vocation, indicates that he has started an industry of which how many heads of families there in this country will be provided for their benefit by the government proposes to be.

GOING OUT.

In this fair world in which we dwell
no man's so greatly needed
that when they toll his passing bell
his going is much heeded. Today
we see a shining guy of whom the world is talking, and we remark,
"If he should die 'twould set the planet rocking. Oh, it would jolt
this country hard to lose this human pattern; the solar system would be jarred from Jupiter to Saturn." And then this man of mighty brains is taken with the colic, and fifty-seven kinds of pains around his innards frolic. The doctors round his couch have swarmed as thick as they were able, and in the end we are informed that he has slipped his cable. The great man's dead! And still the sun its daily bonfire raises, and still the stars, when day is done, come forth and shine like blazes. The government wags on the same, dissatisfaction giving, and men pursue the same old game they played when he was living. The fame he worked so long to build has vanished, as enchanted; the great man's place is promptly filled, the great man's
dead and planted.

Yesterday evening Leslie B. Henry addressed over 1000 navy "rookies" at Redondo on the subject of the Liberty Loan. His remarks aroused much enthusiasm among the enlisted men and a large number of them subscribed for enough bonds to use up almost all their pay for the next six months. Yesterday afternoon several speakers talked to the men on the U.S.S. Cheyenne and officers of that vessel were lavish with pledges to the loan.

Similar meetings are being held in the interest of any importance in Southern California and wonderful results are being obtained from the efforts that are being expended by the corps of skilled speakers which has charge in charge. Monday evening Al Wright and C. M. Raymond addressed a meeting at Huntington Park and other meetings are being held for almost every night during the next two weeks.

Thomas Kemper B. Campbell, the banker in the United States to be nominated as Assistant District Attorney, spoke last night to the boys of the Clark Memorial Home. The splendid work that is being done by the volunteer women speakers throughout in the present campaign has not yet been fully appreciated by the public.

Twenty Superior Court judges of Los Angeles county Tuesday did their bit in the drive for dollars and made appeals to all persons appearing to purchase the bonds before taking up the regular business of the court. The judges have decided to make similar appeals at every court that they hold, and from a source like this, and the cause materially. The effect of the talks being given by the Superior judges is that the Liberty Bonds will not fall, and emphasis is placed upon the psychological effect that a heavy oversubscription will have upon the Germans.

CHILDREN'S SOCIETY CHOOSES OFFICERS.

Followed by a shower at which many useful garments for needy children were donated by the members, the Children's Home Society of Los Angeles held its annual meeting yesterday morning at the home at Griffith Park and Twenty-fifth street yesterday.

The following were re-elected directors for the ensuing year: Mrs. Frederick Burdett, George F. Bidwell, Frank Wiggins Ross, Julius A. Brown, Frederick Arnold Holt, Mrs. Grant-land Holt, Mrs. Grant-ham, Mrs. Long, Dr. Francis B. Kel-logg, A. E. Merrill and Z. L. Parmelee. Officers will be chosen at a later meeting.

ROUNDING UP SLACKERS?

Charged with being slackers, Walter Ross, alias Earl Shannon, alias Ross and Alfred B. Johnson were lodged in the County Jail yesterday by United States Marshal Proctor. Baker was picked up in Pomona, while Ludkey was arrested in Glendale and Johnson in that a murder had been committed but a few days before, Slane explains by saying:

"Harry was a friend of mine."

The officers think differently. They contend that Slane is shielding Harry from other crimes.

After having been arrested, Slane wrote a number of letters to his immediate relatives, confessing the murder of Botwin, saying that he was about to commit suicide. The poison he says he got at a drug store, saying that he wanted to poison a dog.

"I AM THAT DOG!"

"And I am that dog," he dramatically explained yesterday afternoon at the Sheriff's office.

One of the confessions he wrote reads as follows:

"I am duly responsible for the deed that was committed, and wish no blame to fall on the other boy, as I am crazy at times, and I will take my life before it is too late, while I still have a few rational moments."

Commenting upon that confession, Slane said yesterday that he had once been examined as to his mental capabilities, but didn't tell what the result of the examination had been, except to say that at times he is not mentally what he should be.

Other confessions signed by Slane were addressed to Mrs. Dan Slane, his mother, Saguache, Colo.; Mrs. R. E. Glasgow, a sister-in-law, at Villagrove, Colo., and Mrs. H. V. Cornish, a sister, residing at Bonanzo, Colo.

Slane says that Harry killed Botwin for what money he might have had on his person. Slane says upon his return to Los Angeles from the trip he intended to telegraph home for the expense money, only having had $15 when he left the city.

Mr. Botwin lived at No. 1537 Bridge street, with his wife and son. Yesterday he was to have been a witness in his own behalf in a land suit in Superior Judge Monroe's court. The case was continued by his attorneys, who made the simple announcement that Botwin's car had been found at El Centro, but that he was missing.

PLEADS IGNORANCE.

However, Judge Fines Fishermen, but Suggests Fishing Laws be Translated.

Acting on the suggestion of Superior Judge Willis, persons interested in the four illegal fishing cases that came before him yesterday morning promised to see to it that the fishing laws covering Southern California waters are published in Japanese. The defendants put up the plea that they did not know they were violating the fishing laws, pro-feeding such ignorance of the English language that they could not read the legislative provisions.

However, one of the defendants was fined $100. Addressing him, Judge Willis said:

"If I let you go on the ground that you could not read the fishing laws there would be nothing to prevent every Japanese fisherman here fishing illegally, and put up the plea that he could not read English."

The other three defendants, because of extenuating circumstances, escaped without a fine.

JUDGMENT REVERSED.

The Supreme Court has reversed the judgment of Superior Judge Finlayson, in the action brought by Philip L. Wilson against the Pacific Electric Railway to foreclose a street assessment lien, involving property on Serrano street, Ocean Park. The amount is about $5000. The lower court found for Wilson.

BAKERS' TRIAL ARGUMENT ON.

Prosecution Begins Addresses in "Bread Trust" Case.

Action is Expected to go to the Jury Tomorrow.

Instructions Presented for Court to Rule Upon.

Argument to the jury trying prominent bakers for alleged violation of the Cartwright act in boosting the retail price of bread to 15 cents, in restraint of trade, was under way in Judge Houser's court yesterday afternoon. Deputy District Attorney Shelley opened for the prosecution. He will probably be followed by Deputy District Attorney Doran. Dist.-Atty. Woolwine will make the closing argument and expects to devote three hours to it.

The defense will put Attorney Lloyd Moultrie first on the firing line. He will be followed by Attorney Henry Stiglitz, Attorney E. R. Young, with Attorney W. N. Goodwin closing. The case has been hotly fought from start to finish. Both sides have presented instructions, which the court will rule on. These strike at the meat of the matter. The court will probably instruct the jury on Thursday, and a verdict ought to be reached Thursday night or Friday morning.

The defendants number both wholesale and retail bakers, with the officers of the baking companies. They contend that the rise in the price of bread was in furtherance of trade; that the bakeries were losing money at the wholesale price previous to the April meeting of the bakers, and that the wholesale price fixed at that meeting, namely 12 cents, automatically fixed the retail price, figured on a 20 per cent. increase.

DISCREDITS CHECK.

City Employee Declares Paper was Uttered in Payment for Gambling Debt.

As a defense to the suit of A. C. Voge to collect the face value of a check said to have been dishonored at the bank and received by him in the alleged course of business, Charles E. Kirby, a city employee, says that the check was given by him for a gambling debt. The suit will be tried in the justice court.

Mr. Kirby says that on April 25 he gave his check for $50 to Hugh Ferguson, "solely as evidence of a debt representing an amount lost by defendant to the said Hugh Ferguson, in a gambling game." There had been a game of freeze-out. The men alternately cut the cards at $5 a card, until each had lost $50.

Rector of Church of the Epiphany Resigns to Accept Call of La Jolla Congregation.

Rev. William Bedford Jones, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, has tendered his resignation to take effect November 1, and the same has been accepted by the board of trustees, it was announced yesterday.

Rev. Jones has accepted the rectorship of the Episcopal Church at La Jolla, and in addition will officiate as chaplain at the Bishop school at that place. He has been in charge of Epiphany Church for the past four years, and given general satisfaction. His congregation regret losing his services.

FEDERAL INDICTMENTS.

The Federal grand jury yesterday returned an indictment against Sin Long, who is charged with having in his possession ten five-tael cans of smoking opium. Father Lilley, pastor of the Catholic Church, Monrovia, and Daniel Phelan, brother of Edward H. Phelan, whose second trial on the charge of being a slacker, is to come before Judge Oscar A. Trippet and a jury next week, were in the corridor of the Federal Building when the grand jury met, but it is understood they were not called.

BILLY SUNDAY
THE TABERNACLE
LOS ANGELES

Dear Billy
it cometh TO our ears
That thou art getting after THE DEVIL WITH exceeding GREAT vigor which INDEED seemeth TO us very good ✲ ✲
INASMUCH AS we hate
THE devil like THE devil ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲
SO go thou TO it, Billy AND knock hell OUT OF him AND then some ✲ ✲
✲ ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲
deleted BY censor
SO that he may NO longer roar LIKE UNTO a lion ✲ it cometh TO us ALSO THAT thou art doing wonderful things IN THE saving OF souls ✲ ✲ ✲
WHICH rejoice thus much INASMUCH as we are with thee, heart AND soul ✲ ✲ FOR indeed WENT TO THE saving OF people's souls it seemeth TO us A worthy mission TO save THE people's money ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲ for, BEHOLD, that is where THE spirit moveth us ✲ ✲ for WHEREAS THE lucre appeareth TO thee BUT of little moment ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲ verily TO us it is OF SUPREME importance ✲ ✲ for INDEED, we must eat AND it is well known TO thee THAT it is A task OF exceeding difficulty ✲ ✲ TO praise THE LORD ON AN empty stomach ✲ ✲ ✲
AND, BEHOLD THE landlord cometh TO us WITH blood
IN his eye AND he waxeth exceeding mad when that THE simoleons are NOT ready FOR him ✲ ✲ ✲ neither. INDEED can we lay UP THE goods AND save THE people money UNLESS we have THE lucre ✲ ✲ ✲
FOR, VERILY are we

PROFIT SHARERS

IN THAT we share with THE people thousands that we save yearly ✲ ✲ ✲ FROM not having charge accounts AND big office expense AND deduct accounts and deadheads ✲ ✲ AND, BILLY, the saving THE people's money FOR them doth help thee, TOO ✲ ✲ FOR, thou knowest that THE work OF saving souls doth become like UNTO a snap when that THE people are NOT burdened WITH debts that weigh DOWN THE soul ✲
SO, we beg thee, Billy, that thou be NOT wroth WITH us in our pursuit OF wealth which OFT entaileth much worry AND strain ✲ ✲
FOR, indeed, must we search all THE long AND secret places FOR THE best styles AND THE best goods AND AT THE lowest prices ✲ ✲ that we may be THE better able TO fix THE lowest prices FOR THE people ✲ ✲
AND IF it be NOT asking TOO much OF thee, BILLY, couldn't thou NOT get OVER SOME day to our place OF business where we have assembled countless suits, overcoats, hats AND fixings TO dress UP THE people ✲
THEN, indeed couldn't thou see, FOR thyself, wherein we save them much ✲ ✲ ✲ There cometh, FORSOOTH, TO our place, he that seeketh
A garment, ready TO wear ✲ AND he learneth THAT IN place OF having TO pay twenty dollars he hath
BUT TO dig UP seventeen ✲
AND there cometh another that wanteth A garment WHICH is priced AT twenty-five simoleons ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲
AND he buyeth AND goeth
HENCE IN great joy ✲ ✲ ✲ for that he payeth therefor twenty-three only ✲ ✲ ✲
AND still another cometh WHOSE soul lusteth AFTER A thirty-dollar value ✲ ✲
AND he ALSO rejoiceth IN THAT he hath BUT TO loosen
UP ON twenty-seven bucks ✲
AND another ONE picketh OUT something swell ✲ ✲
FORSOOTH, it is A thirty-five-dollar outfit ✲ ✲ ✲
AND he smileth FROM ear
TO ear when that he learneth THAT he must shell OUT BUT thirty-two ✲ ✲ ✲ WHICH leaveth him still WITH a few shells IN his pocket FOR diverse OTHER things ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲ ✲
NOW, dear Billy, this is SURE some profit sharing AND some saving FOR THE people ✲ But our sharing stoppeth NOT here ✲ ✲ it extendeth even UNTO hats, caps, shirts AND diverse underthings ✲ ✲ IN conclusion, BILLY ✲ ✲ dost thou NOT think that our work is good work AND that it availeth much ✲ ✲ AND that we stand A big chance OF being saved AND NOT having TO stoke it DOWN below ✲ ✲ ✲
BECAUSE, really, we're just working our fool heads OFF
TO save THE people's money AND also TO build UP A large business ✲ ✲ ✲ AND incidentally, make A little money for ourselves
FOR A rainy day ✲ ✲ ✲

Yours sincerely,

Scott Bros

Stocks and Bonds.

MONEY IS EASIER, BUT MARKET SHARES DECLINE.

Short Selling and Liquidation are Again Factors in Wall Street.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Short selling and liquidation again exerted an unfavorable influence on the stock market today, causing various issues to decline to new minimums for the current movement. In several noteworthy instances these quotations also represented the lowest levels of recent years.

Seasoned stocks showed some resistance to pressure. United States Steel and Union Pacific rallying briskly on the temporary improvement manifested at midday, but losing ground again on the wider and more extensive offerings of the last hour. United States Steel recorded 101¼ points to 106⅝, and Union Pacific 1½, but both went down at the end. Steel fell to 104⅝, or within a point of its lowest price of recent months, and closed at 105⅛, off ⅝ on the day.

People's Gas added seven points to yesterday's decline of five. Ohio Gas lost 5¾. Texas company yielded eight points and United Cigars more than three points. Coppers, distilling issues and minor rails suffered reversals of one to three points. Final prices showed no appreciable improvement. Total sales amounted to 740,000 shares.

Promise of easier money was fulfilled, both call and time rates again relaxing, the latter for the shorter periods only.

Bonds were heavy, Liberty 3½'s repeating their recent minimum of 99.52, though rising later to 99.74. Total sales, par value, aggregated $4,180,000. United States bonds, old issues, were unchanged on call.

Payment thro' Taxes vs. Contractual Obligations

The interest and principal of Strict bonds are paid out of taxes upon District lands with the penalty for non-payment of taxes to taxes upon all City and Country property. "Payment thro' taxes" is the distinctive feature of Federal State and Municipal bonds. Its presumptuous and erroneous give to these bonds an evident advantage over securities which are merely "contractual obligations" providing for the payment of interest and principal out of earnings or income and for "foreclosure" proceedings as the penalty for non-payment.

District bonds are Tax-Free and not the investor. 6%%.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The citrus market, which has been gradually stiffening up for the past few weeks, continues to advance materially all quarters. Eastern oranges are now selling for 80 cents per box, Texas for 79 cents and 90 cents, and California makes have been held fully in proportion with other citrus. Local produce jobbers and packing-houses regard the egg market as decidedly firm, despite the unusually high prices existing today. It is reported, both in New York and Chicago, many factories have either entirely or have had their output curtailed materially, owing to the shortage of milk. Wisconsin and Iowa are producing, but are likely to be affected by the milk strike sooner or later.

Arrivals have been eliminated from the offerings of fresh fruit by the local wholesalers of Los Angeles. Figs are more plentiful and consequence quotations for the same have been reduced to 90 cents @ $1.15 a box. Nectarines are firm and prices for first-class fruit sheet have been jumped to $1.75 per lug, an advance of 40 cents. Grapes are growing less in number and as a result dealers have felt inclined in asking rather fancy prices for good stuff. Ruling quotations for all varieties of plums yesterday were $1.35 to $1.75 a lug.

Strong values mark the green vegetable market these days. There is not a popular green vegetable that not been marked up in price during the past few days. Today eggs selling for 75 cents a dozen, summer squash for 85 and 90 cents, lettuce for 40 and 45 cents a box and cucumbers for $1 a lug. The scarcity continues exceptionally strong and consumers do not seem to be in the frequent advances so long as they can procure what they want. Potatoes remained stationary at the close of yesterday morning's session of the Merchants Exchange. Trading was quiet and there was practically no call for other commodities that are listed on the local board. The market, according to Secretary Hall, consisted of fifty-one cases of eggs, 11,300 pounds of butter, 1,000 pounds of cheese, 2115 sacks of potatoes, 414 sacks of onions, 852 sacks of fruit and 5188 boxes of lemons.

FIGHT NEAR ON GAS ORDINANCE.

Industrial Users Protest to State Railroad Board.

Impossible to Serve People Correctly, They Say.

That the natural-gas ordinance will be fought and its objectionable features shown to the public of Los Angeles was brought out yesterday during the hearing of the application for a rehearing of the gas rates case before the State Railroad Commission. Attorney Jared How, chief counsel for the Southern California Gas Company, and Attorney Paul Overton, general counsel of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, swept aside all speculation on the part of Commissioner Edgerton when each stated that the ordinance will be attacked and its weak points emphasized.

"We cannot protect the people of Los Angeles under the terms of the ordinance just passed by the City Council," said Attorney How, "therefore we intend to show why it is impossible for us to serve the people in the best possible way by bringing out the weak points in this ordinance."

"There will be an attack on that ordinance," said Attorney Overton. "Your honor can be assured that we will bring out the objectionable features in a way that the people of Los Angeles will see that they have not been protected under its terms. We believe the commission should put into effect the rate to which this commission has shown that it believes the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation is entitled."

NO DECISION.

No decision was reached by the commission as to the rehearing, but it was decided, after arguments from all attorneys present, that the testimony yesterday will not be a part of the proceedings in the event that a hearing is granted.

When the city of Pasadena, through its counsel, asked that the zone system be abandoned and that a flat rate of 70 cents be granted, the question of zone versus a flat rate became a vital consideration.

Attorney Herbert J. Goudge of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation stated that the present rate fixed in Los Angeles is equivalent to a flat rate of 70 cents and a fraction for every 1000 cubic feet. Commissioner Edgerton then demanded to know of City Attorney Stephens whether, if the city of Los Angeles objected to the zone system, he would be willing to accept a flat rate in Los Angeles for the entire area served by the companies even if this would mean the raising of the 55-cent downtown rate.

City Attorney Stephens did not answer this query, but said the matter is entirely before the commission for consideration. "We are simply asking for a rehearing," he said, "in order to set forth our reasons why we think the rates should be changed."

FILE PROTEST.

Industrial gas users, represented by Attorney L. V. Beeson, filed a protest against the natural-gas ordinance with the commission. The manufacturing interests that will be menaced when the ordinance goes into effect in sixty days have united to make a protest that will be carried before the commission, if not at this hearing, then at a future meeting of the body, when the matter will be fought out.

An attempt was made to bring the question of the gas ordinance before the commission at this hearing. Commissioner Edgerton, however, hinted that the gas ordinance must be considered separately, though he did not make a final decision on the matter.

The commission adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning, when further testimony will be introduced by City Attorney Stephens as to his reasons for asking the commission to grant a rehearing on the gas rates case which has caused so much discussion.

GOLF CLUB BECOMES MILITARY ACADEMY.

ARMY AND NAVY SCHOOL IS OPENED AT PASADENA.

New Institution will Prepare Boys for Entrance to San Diego College—Drill Grounds and Athletic Field will Comprise Sixteen Acres—Many Speak at Exercises.

With the conversion of the old Annandale Golf Club grounds, comprising sixteen acres, into an athletic field and drill grounds, the Pasadena Army and Navy Academy has been established at Mountain road and Avenue 64, under the direction of Capt. Thomas A. Davis. The Pasadena academy will be an elementary school to the San Diego Army and Navy Academy. Instruction and education from the fourth grade in grammar school to second year of high school will be given.

The opening exercises of the institution were held on Monday, when the faculty was introduced to the students and their parents. A programme including speeches by the Rev. L. T. Hitchcock, J. H. Pierman, Judge O. A. Gibbs and Dr. Willis Baer, and piano solos by Miss Esther Brown, was presented. Mme. Marishka-Aldrich sang several selections and led in the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and "America."

BRINGS NEW PROBLEM.

A new problem was raised at yesterday's session of the Public Service Commission, when Dr. Henderson Hayward made application for the service of irrigation water on his lands in the San Fernando Valley from the Maclay high line. Dr. Hayward's land lies within the city, but not within the water bond district, and heretofore no rate has been made for water service in such situations. There are numerous owners of other tracts of land, it was stated yesterday, who are awaiting decision on the Hayward application before asking for similar service.

SUNDAY PREACHES ABOUT CHRIST'S SECOND COMING.

PROBABLY the greatest night audience that has yet assembled at the Sunday tabernacle was that of last night, attracted by the announcement that Billy Sunday would preach on "The Second Coming of Christ." This sermon has always attracted wide attention in all of the campaigns that Mr. Sunday has conducted. In it he vigorously assailed "Russellism" and other "isms."

In discussing the return of the saints to earth to rule with Christ, after they have been caught up in the clouds, Billy said:

"I don't know where the Lord will let me reign, but I think I'll ask Him to let me reign over California if it doesn't make any difference to Him. And if I do, you can just bet your life there'll be something doing around here."

The sermon was deeply impressive, and at its close there were 131 trail hitters, bringing the total for the campaign up to 16,272.

Many large delegations were present last night from city districts and from Pasadena, Hermosa Beach, Lomita, Gardena and the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce. The most impressive delegation, however, was that of the city employees, which occupied an entire section in the center of the tabernacle. There were more than 1000 city employees present, headed by the police band, which played several selections.

The plan of allotting five minutes each night for the presentation of the Liberty Bonds was begun last evening, and Joseph Scott was the speaker, making an earnest plea for every person to take at least one bond. A booth has been erected on the tabernacle grounds for the purpose of receiving subscriptions, and a corps of workers was on hand last night to begin this work.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation by the city employees of a large set floral piece to Billy Sunday, and a great sheaf of flowers for "Ma" Sunday. The presentation was made by City Auditor Myers. In response Mr. and Mrs. Sunday expressed their great appreciation of the people of Los Angeles and their regret that their stay here is drawing to a close.

Next Saturday night is to be one of the greatest nights of the Sunday evangelistic campaign. Mr. Sunday was born in Iowa, and claims Iowa as his home State. There are thousands in Los Angeles and vicinity from old Iowa, and Mr. Sunday will have a special message for them. Fifteen thousand special tickets have been printed, and are free to all who are former citizens of Iowa. These tickets may be secured at the Guaranty Trust and Savings Bank, the California Savings Bank, the Home Savings Bank, Fowler's Book Store, Dyas Sporting Goods Store, the Sunday headquarters (eleventh floor of the Wright and Callender Building.) All former residents of Iowa are requested to help spread the news and circulate the tickets.

"The Second Coming of Christ" was the subject of Mr. Sunday's evening sermon. This sermon is said to have aroused more interest in the Sunday campaigns than almost any one of the series he preaches. The sermon, in part, follows:

Text, I Thessalonians, 4:14-18, "For the Lord Himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the triumph of God; and the dead in Christ shall rise first; Then we, which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air; and so shall we ever be with the Lord. Wherefore comfort one another with these words."

No meeting has ever been held anywhere or any time that can compare with the meeting that will take place in the air, when the Lord comes to make up His jewels. This meeting in the air is the one for which all other meetings have prepared the way; all history has been simply in preparation for the meeting in the air.

From Adam onward, all mankind has been marching step by step up the grand stairway leading to this meeting in the air.

We are not told when Jesus is coming; but His coming is sure. When will He come? Nobody knows, but we are charged to watch for His coming. But in spite of this, the church shows as little concern for His coming as His disciples did about His going away. The return of Jesus is one of the cardinal doctrines, and still many preachers have queer ideas about it. In the twenty-fourth chapter of Matthew, Jesus says, "And this gospel (this gospel for which Christ died, for which churches are organized, for which this tabernacle was built) of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come."

All this fully accords with Peter, "There shall come in the last days scoffers walking after their own lusts, saying, 'Where is the promise of His coming, for since the fathers fell asleep all things continue as they were from the beginning until now.'"

Defies Government in Fight for Valued Acres.

Aids Lawyers in Examining Expert Witnesses.

Mineral Character of Land Question at Issue.

With the clearing away of the preliminaries yesterday in the contest between the government and Mrs. Hyril C. Gill for the possession of 2000 acres of alleged mineral land in Millard Canyon and the Arroyo Seco, the stage was set in the local Land Office for a bout that is likely to last a week and to be bitterly fought.

As the purse is always one of the important things in functions of this kind, it was necessary to take an adjournment shortly after court convened at 10 o'clock, so that Mrs. Gill could raise $50 to pay Charles Shaw, reporter of the Land Office.

The government has about fifteen witnesses to testify, and the first one put on the stand, William H. Friedhoff, a mineral expert, occupied about all the day, in direct and cross-examination.

It was on the cross-examination that Mrs. Gill shone with real luster, and what her lawyers could not master in the way of mystifying questions involving the mineral character of the land at stake, she had at her tongue's end.

IS A FIGHTER.

Large, portly, and knit like a prize-fighter; equipped with a pair of blue eyes that could look through the sides of a battleship, with shoulders that recalled the pictures of Hercules we used to see in the old McGuffey readers, and a manner that spelt readiness for anything that might come, Mrs. Gill is the personification of a woman able to take care of herself.

The testimony of Mr. Freidhoff was like a chapter from "The Testimony of the Rocks." He had made a close examination of the minerals in both Millard Canyon and the Arroyo Seco, he stated, and asserted that there was no building stone that could be used commercially. Mrs. Gill's claim is based on the building stone she alleges is to be found on the land. Mr. Freidhoff stated there was only a formation of granite and schist, but the granite is off color and of uneven grain, and is the same sort of formation that can be found anywhere in the Sierra Madre Range.

TELLS EXPERIENCE.

W. P. Cabot, caretaker of the La Vina Sanatorium, in Millard Canyon, gave an amusing account of his troubles with Mrs. Gill. He has held a permit from the forest service since 1911 for a cabin, it appears, and was notified by Mrs. Gill that he must in the future pay his rent of $72 a year to her as the owner of a mining claim on which the cabin was situated. The witness declared that Mrs. Gill has put a padlock on his cabin, and pestered him in many ways, giving him notice that the rent must be paid to Charles S. McKelvey, No. 234 Washington Building. All this time Mr. Cabot, it appears, has had a lease from the government under what is known as a special use permit, and had paid his rent promptly.

J. R. Giddings, who owns a ranch at the mouth of Millard Canyon, said that thirty years ago he had prospected all through the canyon, and found no indication of any mineral.

PROPER TAX HINGES ON CLERICAL ERROR.

The question whether a clerical error reducing the assessed valuation of a corporation's land is a defense to paying the proper tax will be threshed out when the suit of the Southwest Land Company against the county of Los Angeles comes to trial. The attorneys were in Judge Finlayson's court yesterday seeking to have the action tried, but owing to the condition of the calendar, it will have to be transferred.

The 1915 taxes were levied on an assessed valuation of $10,280. This was a clerical error, as the valuation should have been $100,280. The corporation contends that the county did not have the right to make a change in the assessment.

VISIT FROM BILLY.

Billy Sunday, accompanied by "Ma" Sunday, visited the Hall of Records and the County Courthouse yesterday and met the "boys." He was introduced to the members of the Board of Supervisors by Supervisor Woodley, and entered the various departments of the county to get in personal contact with the clerks. He expects to see many of the clerks at his meetings.

MUST HAVE SPRINKLERS

Owners of Buildings Shall have to Provide Systems for Fire Protection.

Owners of buildings within the downtown fire district must install automatic sprinklers. This was decided yesterday afternoon by the Council, sitting as a Committee of the Whole. Many persons protested against the determination of the Council upon the ground that to compel the installation of sprinklers in the basements of buildings that were standing when the code was adopted would be retroactive. Members of the Council agreed with them but were of the opinion that it would be poor policy to take any action which might result in extra fire hazards.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY IS OBSERVED.

The Baker Iron Works observed fire prevention day at noon yesterday with a barbecue for its employees and a programme of short talks along the line of preventing conflagrations instead of putting them out.

The day was not observed by the fire department, nor in the schools, but the department is planning to conduct a fire prevention campaign in the city schools during the winter months, through the fire prevention bureau.

A great quantity of literature on fire prevention has been received by the fire department, and this will be given to the school children, that they may learn how they can prevent fires.

CHIEF'S JOB SAFE.

Report is that Mayor Woodman will Reappoint Executive of Police Force.

Rumors that Chief Butler will not be reappointed when his term expires on the 17th inst. were exploded yesterday when the Police Commission granted him a leave of absence for another year from the position of lieutenant, which he held at the time he was appointed Chief by Mayor Woodman.

In granting the leave of absence the commission requested the Civil Service Commission to permit the Chief to retain his standing on the civil service list. That Mayor Woodman will reappoint Chief Butler next week is regarded as certain.

COUNCIL TO HEAR BROADWAY PROTESTS.

Protests against the confirmation of assessments for the opening of Broadway from Pico to Washington streets will be heard by the Council today. Recently the Council refused to abandon proceedings and set a time for hearing protests against assessments. When this question is adjusted the Council expects to order the work done at the earliest possible moment.

Those who are protesting declare the assessments are unfair and not equitable. Both sides to the question will be heard. It is expected the hearing will last two or three days.

The total assessment for the improvement has been fixed at $727,866.95.
